BALLOONISTS ARE OUT OF THE WOODS

Hawley and Post Hurrying by Train from North to Quebec.

COME BACK WITH WORLD'S RECORD

Safe, Sound and "Perfectly Happy," Missing Ones Come from Wilds.

Chicoutimi, Quebec, Oct. 27.—Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post, the new holders of the world's balloon championship, showed little ill effect today from the thrilling experiences which have been theirs since they left St. Louis nine days ago in the America II. They were fatigued, but the trip had been thoroughly worth while, they said.

"Tell our friends that we are well and very happy," was the message which they sent from their rooms in the hotel.

The two aeronauts reached here at 10 o'clock last night and retired shortly before midnight as soon after their arrival as they could get away from the welcoming and congratulating citizens. They had driven forty miles over rough country from St. Ambroise since the early afternoon and were "tired to the bone" as one of them expressed it.

Flood of Messages.

A flood of messages from the United States which awaited them on their arrival, went unanswered and for the most part unread, until morning. Their night's rest was bound to be brief for their train over the Quebec & Lake St. John was scheduled to leave at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

Both air men agreed that the most welcome sight in all Chicoutimi on their arrival was the bath tub in their rooms at the hotel. And every one of the last nine days had been spent arduously. Four of the nights had been passed out of doors, with the hard ground for a bed and their army blankets for cover.

Their balloon America II is still at Lake Du Banc de Sable, this being the title of the township where they landed. It is believed that Joseph Pednaud and Joseph Simard, the two trappers who brought the balloonists in a bark canoe to St. Ambroise, will go back and see what can be done to get the big bag from its cache on the side of the mountain to the railroad here. This will not be an easy task.

In the Air Forty-Six Hours.

Messrs. Hawley and Post landed about 46 hours after their departure from St. Louis. The balloon basket touched earth at 3:35 o'clock on the afternoon of the 19th. They probably flew, in all, about 1,660 miles, although the direct distance between the two points, on which the international race is decided is only 1,355 miles. This would make their average rate of progress about 35 miles an hour.

Leaving here this morning Messrs. Hawley and Post will reach Quebec shortly before 6 o'clock this evening.

Mr. Post's Narrative.

Mr. Post gives an interesting account of their journey, their landing and hard trip to civilization.

"We had a beautiful trip," said Mr. Post. "We crossed Lake Michigan and Lake Huron and followed what I should judge to be the route of the proposed Georgian Bay canal and if you ask me, there is water enough in that section of the country, not only to fill the canal, but to float all the ships of the world.

"Then we crossed the Ottawa and floated over the forests of Northern Quebec, passing over innumerable lakes and rivers. The country below us always was densely wooded. Finally on Wednesday morning we found that we were north of the Lake St. John and going well, and we had hopes that we would be able to continue the trip until we struck the Labrador coast.

"Unfortunately, about 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, the 19th, a storm came up and it became necessary to make a landing. We picked out a mountain and came down upon it and made an easy landing on the mountain side at an elevation of about 1,500 feet.

"This was at 3:45 p. m. It was near nightfall and we knew that we were a considerable distance from any settlement, so we decided to pass the night in the basket of the balloon.

Start for Civilization.

"The next morning we started for civilization, heading south. We had three days of strenuous exercise, with no more to eat than was absolutely necessary, as we had to carry all our food as well as the blankets to cover us at night. And we needed those blankets badly, for we had two snow storms on the way.

"On the fourth day we found the camp of Jack Matthias, a trapper, but he was away from home. We, however, stayed there and enjoyed the hospitality of his hut for a day of much needed rest. Then four French Canadian trappers turned up and like good fellows, brought us out by canoe to St. Ambroise, where we arrived this afternoon.

"As near as we can figure our landing place was about 58 miles north of Chicoutimi. There is rather a large lake near where we landed, Lake Piscocama, and we landed between 5 and 8 miles north. Two smaller lakes were also passed by us as we made our way through the woods. The country there is very rough and our travel was necessarily slow and arduous in the extreme, as there were no trails we could follow.

"The bush was very dense and we had a hard time fighting our way

THREE SKYMEN GO OUT AGAINST WIND

Hoxsey and Johnstone in Strenuous Rivalry on Wright Machines.

BOTH STRUGGLING FOR HIGH RECORD

Gale Prevents Starting in Elimination Races for Bennett Cup.

Belmont Park, Oct. 27.—Two Wright standard biplanes of the new headless model and Hubert Latham in an Antoinette monoplane were the only flyers that cared to risk their necks in a twenty mile wind when the fifth day of the international aviation meet was opened at 1:30 this afternoon.

Those two steadfast rivals, Hoxsey and Johnstone, in the two biplanes, shared in their daily duel for altitude. The eagerness with which these two strive against each other makes the most amusing situation in the tournament and is relied on to end in bringing down a new world's record.

Found It Rough Going.

Latham was out for distance and soon had a good start with no rivals. He covered fourteen laps in the first hour.

All three found it rough going. Johnstone and Hoxsey, who went up for altitude, though they pointed straight into the wind, were blown steadily backward behind the horizon.

As the normal speed of a Wright biplane is about thirty-five miles an hour, it was estimated that they must be bucking a wind of better than thirty-eight miles velocity.

Word came that they had been sighted over Soyssaet, struggling to alight in a forty mile gale.

Hoxsey telephoned in that he landed safely in Brentwood, 25 miles away, and would fly back tomorrow.

Overrule Grahame-White.

The committee unanimously overruled Grahame-White's protest.

The only entries for the 10,000 Liberty statute flight which had been received up to noon were those of Moissant and Frisbie, but Radley, of the British team, and Drexel also intend to compete. "It's the only good prize of the meet," said Radley. "That and the international cup are worth going after. This daily grind around the track for distance is too much like play. Of course, it's necessarily risky flying over the city, and that's sport."

The distance from here to the statue of Liberty in New York harbor and return is about 35 miles as the crow flies, but the aviator may choose his own route. The best time takes the money.

According to the committee announcement today the prize is open to any aviator for the remainder of the meet, the start to be made before 3:45 and the finish to be not later than 5:30 p. m.

Chance for Dark Horse.

In the elimination trials all the dark horses will show their paces. The Wright racer has already proved itself fast. The Curtiss "single surface" plane—not a true monoplane, but a compromise—was assembled and warmed up this afternoon and a brand new machine designed by Walter Christie, the old automobile racer, was being tuned up this morning. It has twin engines of 65 horse power, harnessed fore and aft to two propellers and is the most powerful machine in the hangars. Hamilton is considered a dangerous competitor if his machine shows steadiness.

Too Windy to Race.

The American aviators notified the judges this afternoon they considered the wind too strong to compete in the elimination trials. The same belief, coupled with freedom to start in better weather, held back contestants of all nationalities from attempting the liberty flight.

Miss Eleanor Sears, of Boston, was one of the few early morning privileged visitors to the hangars. She has already been up twice with Grahame-White in his Farman biplane. A prize of $2,000 is offered to the aviator who shall carry a passenger twenty miles cross country in the fastest time and Miss Sears is anxious to be the passenger.

Early Prospects Not Bright.

Prospects were not bright for the starting at 9 o'clock of the elimination races for the American team in the James Gordon Bennett cup race, the big event of the international aviation meet here. Shortly after 7 a. m. the wind was blowing 35 miles an hour out of the southwest and increasing and there was hope that the disposition of the air currents would prove kinder before the morning was well advanced, however, and preparations were early begun among the American entrants for the contest. The aviators in the eliminations have until 5:30 p. m. to finish. The trials are over the five kilometer course, which must be covered twenty times.

Foreign Camps Active.

The foreign camp was hardly less active than the American this forenoon, the air men preparing variously for the flight to the Statue of Liberty and return for the prize of $10,000 offered by Thomas Fortune Ryan and for the altitude and other competitions of the day. Radley, the English aviator; Drexel, McCurdy and Moissant were expected to make the liberty flight, set for the hours between 2:45 and 5:30 p. m. The big 100 horse power Antoinette of Hubert Latham arrived here early this morning and will be assembled for the big international race on Saturday.

No One Wanted to Try.

When the starting gun was fired for the elimination race in the Gordon Bennett contest none of the aviators

CONE OF MT. VESUVIUS.

VIEW OF SALERNO

NO POLITICIANS NEED APPLY—TAFT

President Wants Merit and Nothing Else for His Tariff Board.

SERVICE AND PULL WILL AVAIL NO ONE

Makes That Clear in Letter Turning Down Partisan Applicant.

Washington, Oct. 27.—With a further desire to keep the tariff board entirely out of politics, President Taft has directed that under no consideration shall investigators or experts be appointed by the board for political considerations. The president had thought that his position in relation to the work of the tariff board was thoroughly understood, but a recent application for appointment in which the candidate urged himself because of party labors in the past called out an order from the president. In a letter addressed to the backers of this political candidate President Taft said:

"I have directed my office to indicate in all communications on this general subject of appointment on the tariff board that I desire those employed as experts to be employed for merit alone and entirely regardless of their services to any particular political party."

COLONEL SPRINGS A NEW WAR CRY IN FIGHT

Says It's the Workshop Against the Bucket Shop This Fall.

Gloversville, N. Y., Oct. 27.—Theodore Roosevelt brought out a new campaign cry in his speech here today. "The issue is the workshop against the bucket shop," said he in addressing the crown which packed the opera house. Ex-Representative Lucius Littauer, of Gloversville introduced the colonel, complimenting him on the "happy fifty-second anniversary of his birth."

"Fundamentally the issue in this campaign," said Col. Roosevelt, "is the workshop against the bucket shop. We stand for honesty and the workshop. Our opponents stand for political corruption and the bucket shop. Whenever you find a little center of dissension with the republican ticket in this campaign you will find that it springs from correspondence with the bucket shop or from people affected by the ticker crowd."

In discussing the "new nationalism" Col. Roosevelt said "I wish that you would read my Osamattomie speech. I stand by every word of it."

THE COLONEL'S BIRTHDAY.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 27.—This is Theodore Roosevelt's 52nd birthday. He reached Utica from the northern boundary of the state early today prepared to put in a hard day's work.

After a short stop here Col. Roosevelt started out on a circuit which is to bring him back in this city late this afternoon. His schedule for the day called for speeches at Fonda, Gloversville, Amsterdam, Little Falls and Herkimer, with a meeting in Utica tonight. He is to spend the night in this city remaining here until 11:30 a. m. tomorrow when he begins the last day of speech making of his tour of the state.

WAR SECRETARY IS HUNTING.

Paris, Oct. 27.—Jacob M. Dickinson, American secretary of war, and Brigadier General Clarence R. Edwards, chief of the bureau of American insular affairs, left today for Meru, in the department of Oise, where they will devote two days to hunting in the forests as the guests of Robert W. Goelet.

A REVOLUTION HAS BROKEN OUT IN ATHENS

Dissatisfaction With the Government Results in Uprising.

Berlin, Oct. 27.—There is a persistent rumor in financial circles today that a revolution has broken out at Athens. Telegraphic inquiries sent to the Grecian capital this afternoon have elicited no response.

There has been much ill-feeling at Athens recently against the national assembly, culminating in the dissolution of that body last Tuesday. The assemblage was especially elected for the purpose of undertaking a revision of the constitution. At the request of King George, M. Venezelos, the Cretan leader, formed a cabinet on Oct. 18. The ministry was not received in a friendly spirit by the chamber, the members of which repeatedly absented themselves when Premier Venezelos attempted to secure a vote of confidence. The premier, discouraged, announced the resignation of the cabinet on Oct. 23. King George, however, refused to accept the resignation, and on Monday the chamber adopted a vote of confidence in the premier by a ballot of 208 to 31. The premier was not satisfied, feeling that it was a vote of compliance rather than confidence and ordered that the assembly be dissolved and November 28 was set as the date of the election for a new revisionist chamber. Opposed to the recent assembly was the ministry cordially supported by the king and the populace. The latter having recently made friendly manifestations toward the king and the government and criticized the assembly though no serious disorders have occurred at the capital so far as is definitely known outside.

MILES OF CANALIZED RIVER.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 27.—With the completion of lock number six on the upper Cumberland river, 125 miles of canalized river above Nashville were today opened for navigation. The river below Nashville is canalized 41.4 miles. With the new work opened above Nashville there are now 166.4 miles of canalized river above and below this city.

Mexico's interior is a high tableland upon which are located nearly all the populous cities and the climate is so cool that the Mexicans have not yet required the habit of drinking cold water.

THE WEATHER.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Indiana—Fair tonight and Friday; much colder tonight with killing frosts; brisk northwest winds.

Ohio—Generally fair tonight and Friday; much colder tonight with heavy frost; brisk to high northwest winds, diminishing.

Lower Michigan—Partly cloudy tonight and Friday with snow flurries near west and north shores, much colder with killing frost tonight; brisk to high northwest winds.

Illinois—Generally fair tonight and Friday; cooler tonight with temperature near freezing in central and north portions; brisk to high northwest winds, diminishing.

FIRE DOES IMMENSE DAMAGE IN CITY OF VICTORIA

British Emporium in Far Northwest Loses Best Business Blocks.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 27.—Fire which started last night and burned until long after midnight, swept through the heart of the city's business section, wiping out several of the finest buildings and inflicting a loss estimated at $1,500,000 to $2,000,000. Fire brands floated in high wind which swept toward the water front, and it was with great difficulty that the firemen, aided by the militia and the garrison at Workpoint barracks, kept the flames from sweeping a broad path to the water's edge. Several unprotected pleasure yachts caught fire and burned.

BABY BURNS ITS HANDS.

Little Daughter of A. L. Ward Toddles Against Stove.

Dorothea Ward, the baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ward, 1704 Wells street, had the palms of both her hands painfully burned Wednesday afternoon when in toddling about the house the little one stumbled and in attempting to catch herself pressed both palms against a stove. The burns are not believed to be dangerous. The little one is fifteen months old.

FORAKER IS SILENT.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 27.—Joseph B. Foraker, former United States senator, whose withdrawal from the republican campaign in this state late yesterday caused a sensation in political circles, refused to utter a single word of comment on or in explanation of the circumstances that led to the development. He denied himself to interviewers and sent word out by his secretary that he had "nothing to say."

KING VISITS RUINED TOWN.

Naples, Oct. 27.—King Victor Emanuel visited Celeria, the little town on the north coast of the Gulf of Salerno, which was hardest hit by the recent cyclone that swept the adjacent coasts. Later he went to other places, everywhere reviving the spirits of those who survived the disaster and inspiring among the more fortunate a disposition to aid others in need and to repair the damage wrought.

RISK ACTUARIES MEET.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 27.—Mathematicians to the number of 150 actuaries of the insurance companies of the United States and Canada were today present when the annual convention of the Actuarial association began. Archibald A. Welch, Hartford Conn., is president of the society and Arthur Hunter, New York, is secretary.

MR. SHIVELY DOING WELL.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 27.—United States Senator B. F. Shively, who was operated on late yesterday for the removal of an infected toe, is resting easy today, and is in excellent spirits. It is said he will not be able to reenter the present campaign.

TELL OF GLIMPSE OF BIG AIR CRAFT

Balloon Observed by Fort Wayne Party Surely America II.

S. F. BOWSER WAS MAN WHO SAW IT

Fort Wayne Hunters Bring First News from the Wilds of Quebec.

Home today from a hunting expedition in the wilds of Quebec, Messrs. S. F. Bowser, E. W. Cook, C. A. Wilding and C. A. Dunkelberg are thoroughly of the opinion that the balloon which drifted over their camp 1,093 miles north of Fort Wayne on Wednesday of last week was the long-missing America II, which reported safe with Hawley and Post aboard Wednesday night after days of anxious watching and searching by members of the St. Louis Aero club and officials of two governments.

It is now clearly evident that by the strange circumstance of chance it fell to the lot of the Fort Wayne men, a thousand miles from home, in the wilderness of Quebec, to give to the world the first information of an aircraft, the flight of which the civilized world was anxiously watching, but of which the hunters, remote from points of communication, had no knowledge. Telegrams from Hawley and Post, however, make it evident the America II. landed precisely in the region for which it was headed when it passed over the Fort Wayne camp and where the guides with the party declared it would land. Other air craft finished the flight far to the east of this point.

Mr. Bowser Caught Glimpse.

It transpires that Mr. Bowser, sitting at the club house of the Kippewa Hunting and Fishing club, was the only member of the Fort Wayne party to see the balloon. Mr. Cook, Mr Wilding and Mr. Dunkelberg, with the guides, were at the time in camp in the dense woods some miles away, and they returned to the club house to find everybody there wildly excited over the passing of the air craft.

Mr. Bowser saw the balloon at 7 o'clock on the morning of Wednesday, Oct. 19. It was traveling at a height of apparently 800 feet and drifting in a northeasterly direction. The telegrams of Mr. Hawley and Mr. Post say they landed at 3:45 o'clock on the same afternoon that their craft was seen by Mr. Bowser, and the point of landing is directly in the region toward which the balloon was traveling when observed by Mr. Bowser and others at the club house.

News Slow in Traveling.

The region is so far outside the channels of direct communication that it was several days before news reached the centers of civilization. The Fort Wayne men had no knowledge of the fact that the balloons in leaving St. Louis had taken a direction that would bring them into the country to which the hunters had gone for their outing. They had traveled as far into the uninhabited forest fastnesses of Quebec as it was possible to go by rail, then taken a small steamer to the end of a lake and finally pushed still further into the woods.

Not only were they without information regarding the balloon races, but the Fort Wayne men were compelled to exist without information as to the result of the world's championship baseball series and they admit that about their campfire in the woods of Quebec they indulged in some speculation as to the outcome of the struggle between the Cubs and the Athletics.

Gave the First News.

When they reached Montreal on their way homeward they learned of the balloon race and the missing America II., and then the full significance of the presence of the air craft which Mr. Bowser had seen dawned upon them. To men who were there engaged in preparation for a relief expedition to search for the balloon, the Fort Wayne men told of their observation, and Mr. Cook wired the information to Lewis Spindler, the St. Louis man who had reached Montreal to head a relief expedition. It was the first authentic news the world had received from the balloon in several days.

The Fort Wayne men were the center of interest and were compelled again and again to recount the story of the observation of the balloon. When Toronto was reached Wednesday afternoon, a week after it transpires the America II. had landed, Mr. Cook hunted up Mr. Spindler and gave him additional information. A few hours later, after the Fort Wayne men were aboard a train which was to bring them home, news came from the intrepid aeronauts for whose safety the whole civilized world was fearing.

Two Got Big Game.

Upon the hunting expedition Mr. Bowser, Mr. Cook and Mr. Wilding were the guests of Mr. Dunkelberg, who is a member of the Kippewa Hunting and Fishing club, which has leased from the Canadian government an estate of 400 square miles in the wilderness of Quebec. Mr. Cook and Mr. Wilding were the only members of the party to shoot moose, which was the big game for which the hunters had gone.

Mr. Cook's triumph came early in the morning of the day following their arrival in camp and Mr. Wilding bagged his animal a day later. Others of the party contented themselves with partridge and other small game. The experience is described as a thoroughly delightful one. Mr. Cook and Mr. Wilding have shipped the heads of the two moose to Fort Wayne and will preserve them as trophies of the trip.

PLEA WAS ONLY FOR BEVERIDGE

Pinchot Says Indiana Senator Should Be Kept on Firing Line.

FAMOUS FORESTER SPEAKS AT RINK

Talks of Conservation and Tells How "Interests" Work Their Grabs.

Pleading for the return of Albert J. Beveridge to the United States senate, detailing to some extent the warfare which the special interests have waged against the effort for conservation of the nation's natural resources, and declaring that Beveridge is needed on the firing line in the fight against the iniquitous assaults of organized greed, Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester, addressed an audience at Princess rink Wednesday evening.

Mr. Pinchot's entire effort was enlisted in behalf of Mr. Beveridge. There was no mention of any other nominee for office, and not a reference to the tariff or other issue save the question of conservation. The latter, while so obviously for the public good that one would imagine the people as a unit would endorse it, had drawn the fire of powerful and wealthy organizations that were seeking to exploit public property for private aggrandizement, and the speaker contended that it was vital to the people of Fort Wayne from the fact that wherever the special interests have fixed their grip upon the natural resources there is a bill to pay, and in every instance that bill is ultimately paid by the plain people.

Was High in Favor.

The audience quickly made it apparent that Mr. Pinchot was high in its favor. Attorney James B. Harper presided, and Judge O. N. Heaton, republican nominee for congress, spoke briefly before Mr. Pinchot was introduced. As the former forester arose to speak there was applause long continued. Mr. Pinchot was kept bowing his acknowledgments for some time, and finally was compelled to signal for silence in order that he could speak. In introducing the chief speaker of the evening, Mr. Harper had declared that the American people have come, in the consideration of political questions, to demand not only prosperity, but prosperity with greater righteousness. He also touched rather gingerly upon the incident in which President Taft had demanded the resignation of Mr. Pinchot after the latter's clash with Secretary Ballinger.

"I do not deserve all these kind things which your chairman has said of me," observed Mr. Pinchot in beginning his address. "I'm simply a forester out of a job. The kind friends who have presided over the Indiana meetings at which I have spoken have possibly been laboring under a misapprehension when they over-politely speak of my 'resignation.' I have been under the impression that the situation was something entirely different." Prolonged laughter and applause greeted this sally.

Doesn't Like Trolley Cars.

Mr. Pinchot is a disciple of the outdoor life. He had spoken at Bluffton in the afternoon, having made a tedious zig-zag trip from Mishawaka, changing cars repeatedly, and did not reach the Wells county capital until after 2 o'clock. He lamented the trolley and train rides with ill-smelling coaches, and longed for a 40-horse power motor car to take him across the country.

"I'm going to whisper something in the committee's ear the next time I come to Indiana," said Mr. Pinchot to members of his party. "Life is worth living when a fellow is bowling over the country in a big, red car. But none of this trolley riding in mine. I would rather ride in a freight car. An out-door life for me."

Mr. Pinchot's desire for an automobile ride was gratified at Bluffton through the courtesy of Maj. L. C. Davenport, who brought the former chief forester to Fort Wayne in his big motor car, making the run of twenty-five miles in little more than an hour over the elegant road to the intense delight of the distinguished traveler. Mr. Pinchot spent the night at the Anthony hotel, leaving this morning for Albion, where he delivered an afternoon address.

When the Fight Started.

"No other question before the American people," said Mr. Pinchot, "is so simple, so straightforward, so plain and so profoundly democratic as this policy of conservation. While this generation has the right to use all it needs of the nation's natural resources, it has no right to waste them. It is just as wrong for the people to squander the patrimony of the nation as for father and mother to squander the patrimony upon which the future welfare of their children depends. One would assume that this were a proposition that the whole people would unreservedly endorse. Yet when we began to stop talking and do things, opposition developed. In every step taken we found that we had to beat the special interests before we could accomplish anything. Every time a forest is burned, every time a large tract of woodland passes into the control of a greedy corporation, the people all over this country must pay the advanced price for products made possible by this grab."

Mr. Pinchot referred to the control of congress by the special interests, and of the effort to rally together a band of fighters in congress to the end that the influence of the money power on legislation must stop. He listed among these champions of the people's right, Dolliver, Cummins, LaFollette,

EFFORTS TO REFORM BENDER ARE OF NO AVAIL

Held by Police for a Number of Small Thefts—Big Docket.

All efforts to reform William Bender have proven unavailing and although he was taken in at the Home Mission on Columbia street a few years back and given opportunity after opportunity to lead the right kind of a life he did not profit by his chances and in the city court today he was held to the circuit court on a charge of burglary and went to jail in default of a bond of $1,000.

William Putt, proprietor of the Union house, on West Main street, accuses him of entering his place early this morning and breaking into the show case and stealing some cigars. Burglaries were reported at Oscar Rhoades drug store, Broadway and Washington boulevard; William Newmantel's barber shop, a few doors south, and a saloon in the same square. At the saloon a bottle of whisky was taken, but $35 or $40 in the cash register was overlooked.

Bender in addition to being addicted to strong drink is a drug fiend. He has been in court a number of times, but for minor offenses and this is the first time he has been charged with a felony. Jack Courtney was arrested with him and held until November 3 under a bond of $200 for vagrancy.

Broke His Hand.

George L. Herman was in court with a broken hand as the result of a run-in with a fellow giving the name of George L. Harris. Harris was peeking in the windows at Herman's home last night and as he was being taken off the premises he wanted to fight. Herman struck him two or three times and came out with some broken bones in his right hand. Harris had a check from the Nickel Plate road for some baggage, but no railroad ticket and is being held for an investigation.

Big Docket in Court.

There were thirty-one cases in the city court today, comprising one of the biggest dockets Judge Mungovan has had to handle since he took office. Patrolmen Junk and Madden raided a house on Eureka street last night, conducted by a negro named John Williams. Eight people were sent in and the whole outfit fined on charges of immorality.

Five vags picked up at the Bass farm camp, on the Nickel Plate road, were fined $5 and costs each and warned that the place must be abandoned as a hang out for tramps.

Jack Deveny made his first appearance in several years and was fined $5 and costs for drunkenness. Harry Underwood, Joe Smith, John McDonald and Charles Wilson, plain drunks, were let go.

Tom Nolan, Lyon Caldwell and Charles Gwynn, vagrants, said they were looking for work and the judge allowed them to continue the hunt, telling them there is plenty to be had. Arthur Cartwright and Robert Hargrove, who were not so particular about getting work, were fined $5 and costs each.

John Dawson, John Evans and Mike Higgins, drunks, drew $1 and costs each. James Brown, on parole from Plainfield, was held until the officers can be notified.

Emmett Martin, charged by the city with making sewer connections without a license, had his case continued until Nov. 3.

TAKE STEP TO SAVE CRIPPEN'S NECK FROM ROPE

Appeal is Made to a Higher Court—Another Newspaper Fined.

London, Oct. 27.—Solicitor Newton today entered an appeal in the court of criminal appeals from the verdict of the criminal court which found his client, Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, guilty of the murder of his wife and sentenced him to death on Nov. 8. It is probable that the hearing on the appeal will be expedited, though it may be necessary to postpone the execution.

The high court today fined the Evening News $1,000 for contempt of court in having published the story of a conference between Richard Muir, the prosecuting counsel, and the quartermaster of the steamer Montrose, in which the ship's officer revealed a plan which Dr. Hawley H. Crippen had made to bring about the latter's escape from the vessel when he was being pursued by the British authorities.

The court held that the publication of the story was calculated to prejudice the case of Crippen when the latter was brought to trial for the murder of his wife.

FOGEL WANTS LYNCH TAKE HAND IN THE FIGHT

Philadelphia President Asks League Chief to Warn Cincinnati Club.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27.—President Horace S. Fogle, of the Philadelphia league baseball club, this afternoon telegraphed Thomas B. Lynch of the national organization, requesting him to warn President Garry Herrmann of the Cincinnati club, not to tamper with the Philadelphia players, who, Mr. Fogle says, are all officially in good standing with the local management.

HERRMANN READY TO ACT.

Says He Will Send Contracts to the Traded Players.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 27.—Declaring in a telegram to President Horace Fogel of the Philadelphia league club that title to the services of Players Grant, Bates, McQuillen and Moren rests in the Cincinnati club, President August Herrman of the local organization, today prepared to send contracts to the players for the season of 1911.

Herrmann acted immediately upon receipt of a telegram from Fogle which was couched in defiant terms and to which a reply of unusual warmth was sent. These messages showed that the attempt of the Philadelphia man to call off the deal by which the four eastern players were to be exchanged for Lobert, Paskert, Beebe and Rowan of Cincinnati, is destined to result in an appeal to the national commission and one of the bitterest controversies to which organized baseball has been submitted for some years.

SENDS IN RESIGNATION.

Doein Says He Will Not Be Made a Dummy Manager.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27.—Manager Charles S. Dooin this afternoon mailed his resignation as manager of the Philadelphia National league baseball team to President Fogle as a result of the controversy over the exchange of players with the Cincinnati club. Dooin under his contract remains a catcher of the team.

"I'll be no dummy manager. They can trade me, too, if they want to."

Dooin, who is one of the best catchers in the National league, said he would not go near the office of the "Phillies."

"I don't care to see Fogle. If he wants to see me, he'll have to come after me. I won't go to him. I said the other day that if the Cincinnati deal was blocked I would resign."

President Fogle did not seem to be much perturbed today. "The deal is still off," he said, "and it is going to stay off until I get a trade that is satisfactory to me."

SCALES TO WEIGH ROOKIES.

Army Recruiting Office Here Gets Some New Equipment.

The local army recruiting office received a pair of new folding Fairbanks scales, with measuring apparatus attached, this morning, for use in putting recruits through a physical examination. In the past the recruiting officer has been forced to use the penny in the slot scales on the street below the recruiting office for weighing recruits. As he was compelled to weigh them with their clothes on, he had to practically guess at their correct weight, which often resulted in their being rejected when examined again, after reaching barracks, on account of not making the required weight. The new scales are of the most modern pattern and are made expressly for the army recruiting service.

COURT DECIDES THE COMPANY IS A TRANSIENT

Retail Merchants Win Out in Suit—News of the Courts.

In the circuit court today Special Judge Sol. A. Wood practically denied a restraining order sought by the South African Importing company to prevent County Treasurer William A. Schelman from collecting the fee of $20 a day for the first ten days and $10 a day thereafter imposed by the law upon transient merchandise when he entered some special findings. The company's headquarters are in Chicago and a short time ago an agent came here and took up quarters in a candy shop in the Hotel Anthony.

County Assessor William Eggemann got after the agent and placed him on the transient list and told him he must pay the treasurer the fees. He declined to do this and instituted suit for an injunction. The evidence was heard Monday and the decision handed down today.

Credit for this move is due to the new administration of the Retail Merchants' association under President Frank J. Rahe. The organization wants to discourage the practice of transient dealers coming into the city and opening up for a few days and paying nothing for the privilege of selling goods other than a nominal rental for the place of business.

It is proposed to keep up this fight until merchants of this character learn to give the city a wide berth. The association instigated the movement and the fees and costs will amount to about $500. County Attorney Edward G. Hoffman was ably assisted in the action by Somers and Kennerk, attorneys for the association.

Wants a Separation.

Laura Bleke has filed suit in the superior court asking separation for ten years from Fred W. Bleke. They were married October 22, 1896, and separated yesterday. She charges cruel and inhuman treatment and habitual drunkenness, and asks the custody of their four children and her interest in property held by them.

Case is Compromised.

The case of Cartwright against the Wabash Railroad company, sent from this county to the DeKalb circuit court, has been settled by the payment to plaintiff of $750. Cartwright lost a finger while at work in the Wabash shops in this city. Harper & Eggeman were his attorneys.

Hearing Little Evidence.

Little evidence has been heard by the grand jury during the day and only one or two witnesses in minor matters have been called before the body. None of the more important matters before the members had been taken up this afternoon.

Seeking a New Trial.

John Smith and Patrick Burke, convicted of highway robbery a few days ago, were in the circuit court today asking a new trial. It is not likely that this will be granted and both will receive their sentences and be sent to Michigan City for from five to ten years.

PILE OF POLES ABLAZE.

Traction Company Has Fire Near Big Power Station.

A large pile of electric light poles stored in the rear of the Fort Wayne and Wabash Valley Traction company's power station on Spy Run avenue caught fire shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon and within a short time the blaze, fanned by the high wind, had reached considerable proportions. Engine companies 1 and 6, with the chemical from No. 3 station, soon had the fire under control, but the loss will amount to several hundred dollars.

COFFEE WAS IT.

People Slowly Learn the Facts.

"All my life I have been such a slave to coffee that the very aroma of it was enough to set my nerves quivering. I kept gradually losing my health, but I used to say, 'Nonsense, it don't hurt me.'

"Slowly I was forced to admit the truth and the final result was that my whole nervous force was shattered.

"My heart became weak and uncertain in its action and that frightened me. Finally my physician told me, about a year ago, that I must stop drinking coffee or I could never expect to be well again.

"I was in despair, for the very thought of the medicines I had tried so many times nauseated me. I thought of Postum, but could hardly bring myself to give up the coffee.

"Finally I concluded that I owed it to myself to give Postum a trial. So I got a package and carefully followed the directions, and what a delicious nourishing, rich drink it was! Do you know I found it very easy to shift from coffee to Postum and not mind the change at all?

"Almost immediately after I made the change I found myself better, and as the days went by I kept on improving. My nerves grew sound and steady, I slept well and felt strong and well balanced all the time.

"Now I am completely cured, with the old nervousness and sickness all gone. In every way I am well once more."

It pays to give up the drink that acts on some like a poison, for health is the greatest fortune one can have.

WAS BOAT CAPTAIN IN OLD CANAL TIMES

J. E. Motherwell, a Lifelong Fort Wayne Man, Dies —Other Deaths.

John Edward Motherwell, a lifelong resident of Fort Wayne and a boat captain in the days of the old Wabash and Erie canal, died at 7:45 o'clock Thursday morning at his home, 1819 Webster street, at the age of 69 years, 3 months and 2 days. Death was due to asthma and attending complications.

Born and reared in Fort Wayne, Mr. Motherwell was educated in the Catholic schools, worked on the canal as a boy and man for many years, and later engaged in business as a carpenter and contractor. More recently he had been employed as a night watchman at the Diether lumber yards. At the age of 21 he was united in marriage to Elizabeth Fitzgerald, whose death occurred in 1900. Four sons and four daughters survive. They are William Motherwell, of Denver; Edward, Henry, Frank, Mrs. Dennis Lynch, Mrs. John McVeigh and the Misses Mary and Margaret Motherwell, all of this city. Another son, Michael, who was a soldier during the Spanish-American war, died while at home on a furlough.

Mr. Motherwell was a member of the National Union, St. Patrick's Catholic church, the Sacred Heart league and other societies of the church.

MEALY.

Albert Mealy, 26 years of age, an engraver in the employ of the Fort Wayne Engraving company, died at 6 o'clock Thursday morning at St. Joseph's hospital.

The young man, whose home was in Chicago, came to Fort Wayne a short time ago and was taken ill on Tuesday. Physicians ascribe his death to the effect of inhaling nitric acid fumes in the course of his work, together with pulmonary tuberculosis, which was manifest in his case. He was unmarried.

The remains were shipped this afternoon to Chicago for funeral services and interment.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Was the Mother of Dr. E. J. McOscar, and Very Widely Known.

Mrs. Mary McOscar died at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon atthe residence of her son, Dr. Edward J. McOscar, 129 West Jefferson street, with whom she has made her home for many years. Mrs. McOscar had been in failing health for some time and her death was due to heart trouble.

Mrs. McOscar's age was about 75 years. She was the widow of John McOscar and came to Fort Wayne from DeKalb county twenty-three years ago. Mrs. McOscar was a devoted member of the Cathedral congregation and was widely known and most highly esteemed. She is survived by four sons—Dr. E. J. McOscar, of this city, and William H., Amos J. and Emory McOscar, all residing in California.

WHERE WINTER HAS STRUCK.

Upper Michigan Has a Read Blizzard and Chicago Sees Snow.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 27.—Northern Michigan is experiencing the first snow of the season. The snow is being driven by a thirty mile gale of wind.

Over three inches of snow has fallen in two hours. All boats on Lake Superior are seeking shelter and steam and electric railway service is demoralized.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Snow, not enough of it to coast on, but enough to weigh in as the first of the season, fell here today for a few moments. A sharp drop in temperature is forecasted for tonight.

cured to go aloft. The wind was a little too strong. The aviation committee issued a bulletin today stating that it had revoked its former rule regarding the liberty statue flight, provided that aviators must qualify by an hour's flight at this meet for the event. The new ruling allowed any aviator to make the flight.

Claude Grahame-White made a formal protest to the aviation committee, stating he had risked his machine to qualify and thought it unfair that those who had not qualified should be allowed to go in the contest. No action has yet been taken on this protest.

A large search light has been installed in judges' stand to be used to guide aviators who are up for altitude after dark.

FENCE IS TAKEN DOWN.

Property at Broadway and Berry Street is Thrown Open.

The city today removed the fence surrounding the property at Berry street and Broadway that was fenced in several years ago under an agreement with the owner of the property at the northwest corner of the two thoroughfares. The present owners were notified to remove the fence but failed to do so.

At Calhoun street today the Wabash Railroad company made good progress with its iron work, and this afternoon curbing was ready to set for the west side of the south sidewalks.

The board of works will have up for consideration at its meeting tonight the confirmation of assessment rolls for sidewalks on both sides of Runion avenue from Main to Spring and on the north side of Mary street, from Runion avenue to the Grand Rapids road.

Bids will also be received for paving Broadway and DeWald street at the point where bridges formerly stood over Shawnee run.

NO NEGROES NEED APPLY.

Lily White Republicans of South Carolina in Convention.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 27.—There is not a federal office holder nor a negro on the list of delegates here for the republican state convention called to meet this afternoon by John D. Capers, national committeeman for South Carolina. The convention will contest the claim to regularity which will be made by delegates elected at a convention composed mostly of negroes which met here Sept. 26. Capt. Capers insists that the attitude of himself and associates are determined that the southern negro "shall no longer keep us in helpless political bondage for the sake of propitiating the negro vote north and west."

FAMILY OF FLAMES

Criminal Society That Terrorizes Calabria and Sicily—Same as Black Hand Here.

(Rome Letter.)

Prof. Vincenzo La Marca explains in a letter addressed to the Giornale d'Italia, of Rome how the Black Hand, originally an Italian institution, now flourishes in Calabria and Sicily, as well as in America. In 1894 Calabria was visited by a great earthquake, and the unfortunate inhabitants sought in emigration a remedy against the general destitution that followed. The exodus toward America then started, and Calabria was gradually depopulated, agriculture and cattle raising were neglected, the cost of living became high and idleness was encouraged, as the returned emigrants refused to work, but lived on the money saved in America.

Old customs were abolished, the character and temperament of the inhabitants were changed, humility and respect to authority were lost and the criminal instincts and passions of the people were given full vent. The returned emigrants brought back with them new ideas of democracy and equality; they considered themselves superior to their fellow-countrymen and entirely independent because enriched in the land of plenty.

Old Society Revived.

In 1335 the old criminal association, known as "Famiglia delle Vampe," or Family of Flames (or fire), which had been transplanted to America, where it assumed the name of Black Hand, was revived in Calabria and Sicily. At present, according to Professor La Marca, it is thoroughly organized and naturally its members are in close connection with their American comrades. The Family of Fire has its chief, whose power is absolute, and each province and district has special sections, or groups linked together by the common bond of crime. The members of the gang use a special language, which is understood only by the initiated. All the members are armed and they must carry either "mirrors" (razors) or else the "tufa" (revolver). They must always be on the lookout for "monks" (policemen) and must defend and protect each other. The chief of every section or group attends to the ordinary administration of the gang; he collects the fees paid by each member, convokes secret meetings, generally in the open air and at night, organizes the work and presides over the tribunal when an execution is decreed.

The Family of Fire has numerous members both in Calabria and in Sicily and its ranks are increasing daily. In fact, one of the chief duties of each member is to persuade his friends to join the gang, and often when persuasion is useless threats and intimidations are adopted. A special formula is generally used to press new recruits into the service of the society. A member of the gang goes up to a young man of promise and asks him: "Do I speak with a fool or an evil-disposed person?" If the young man is willing to join the society he replies: "You speak to a man." The member of the society then says that he, too, is a man, but a man of honor, meaning that he occupies a high rank in the gang, and he then adds that the society needs the young man's service and requests him to pay a "flower"—that is, a contribution or fee. When this fee is paid the young man becomes a member and he is said to walk under the name of the old member who persuaded him to join.

Members Are Graded.

In case a young man refuses to join the society, after some time he is told to leave the place or to pay a fine, but he generally does both or else disappears mysteriously. The Family of Fire has a special code of honor, which consists of many rules divided under two headings—"Dirty Policy," which relates to discipline, and "False Policy," which deals with the work of the society. The code also fixes the procedure to be adopted in executions, and these are grouped under the single heading of "Convictions."

The members of the society are divided into different classes. They generally begin their career as "young men;" then they are promoted to "young men of honor;" later they take the name of "dealers" and "chief dealers," when they may still be promoted to "ricottari." The Family of Fire has become so powerful and rich, mainly owing to the considerable financial contributions of its members in America who belong to the Black Hand, and it has extended so widely all over Southern Italy and Sicily, that its members enjoy the utmost immunity. Mysterious murders are becoming very frequent and yet the police hardly ever succeed in arresting the murderers. The Family of Fire is indirectly aided by the inhabitants whose passive attitude and reticence impede the course of justice and who know too well that to give information to the police about a crime or give evidence against a prisoner invariably leads to vengeance.

Professor La Marca deplores that the government authorities make absolutely no effort to combat criminal associations and that no surveillance is exercised over returned emigrants, who often come back to Italy with large sums of money which do not always represent their honest savings. The police allow full freedom to suspicious characters, who are in the habit of going to America once or twice every year.

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

It quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. Has automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be cleaned in an instant. It has a cool handle and a damper top.

An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. It has a filler-cap which does not need to be screwed down; it is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for rewicking.

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel. It is strong, durable and well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

LAW ENFORCEMENT BEGUN AT WABASH

Detectives on a Hunt Find Law Violators That the Police Could Not.

Wabash, Ind., Oct. 27.—Prosecutor Frank G. Carpenter has filed in the circuit court fifteen affidavits for alleged illegal sales of liquor and for gambling houses in Wabash and these are being followed by arrests by Sheriff Freeman.

These fifteen affidavits filed by the prosecutor will be followed by others for Mr. Carpenter has thirty-six of them in all.

This action follows the activity started by a number of Wabash people who want the law enforced.

The police have been unable to find any liquor sold so another method was followed, detectives coming into Wabash and making a search, they being more successful in their hunt and causing the general cleaning up.

The evidence was secured and the affidavits supplied by the Gunder detective agency, in Marion. Claude A. Gunder, at the head of the agency, is also the publisher of Gunder's Eye Opener at Marion and conducts a lecture bureau to supply law enforcement lectures.

This agency came into Wabash recently and tendered their services. They work in "dry" territory and after securing arrests and aiding in prosecutions they help the civic organization in securing law enforcement.

Prosecutor Carpenter had been unable to get results in the usual channels so he was glad to co-operate with this detective agency in securing results. The arrests on the first fifteen affidavits are in Wabash, Lafontaine and Lagro.

The charges are for running blind tigers, selling liquor without licenses, evading the druggists' law and running gambling joints. The cases will all be tried in the circuit court.

TWO SURGICAL OPERATIONS

Failed to Defeat the Decree of the Grim Reaper.

South Whitley, Ind., Oct. 27.—Miss Grace Trump, aged 23 years, the daughter of Mrs. John Trump, died yesterday afternoon at her home in this city, following an illness of several months and two surgical operations in the hope of staying the progress of her affliction.

She was taken to the St. Joseph hospital in Fort Wayne February 2nd, of this year, and underwent an operation for appendicitis. After coming home she remained there for about two months, but the operation did not seem to be of benefit, and she suffered from tuberculosis of the bowels. She returned to the hospital again, and underwent a second and third operation and also treatment for her malady. Two months ago she came home and had been bedfast ever since, until death ended her suffering.

She is survived by her mother, two sisters and three brothers, one of whom, Emmett Trump, resides in Fort Wayne.

HEALTH OFFICER RESIGNS

Because Other Physicians Would Not Help in Law Enforcement.

South Whitley, Ind., Oct. 27.—Dr. C. S. Albertson, who has officiated as secretary of the board of health in South Whitley, tendered his resignation to the town board at their regular meeting Tuesday night and it was accepted. He gave as his reasons that he could not get the other physicians of the town to co-operate with him in the enforcement of quarantines against contagious diseases and that he could not devote his time to it anyhow. His successor has not been chosen. He has been the official for two years and thinks that some one else can have it for a time.

A SINGING EVANGELIST.

Miss Vera Segur Will Go As Missionary to Foreign Fields.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 27.—Miss Vera Segur, a successful singing evangelist, is in the city for a few days between meetings, visiting with her father, Harvey Segur. Miss Segur spent her girlhood days in Decatur. From here she went to Angola, where she attended the Tri-State college, graduating from the music course of that institution, since which she has been attending Hiram college and singing in revival meetings. Miss Segur has long decided to consecrate her life to religious work and she has been accepted as a missionary. She will leave for the foreign fields in about a year.

DEATH FROM TYPHOID.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 27.—Charles Ellis, aged 36, died yesterday after an illness of four weeks from typhoid fever and stomach trouble. The deceased had nearly recovered from his attack of typhoid fever when he was seized with a severe attack of stomach trouble, which was ended by death. He had taken up a claim in Montana, near Miles City, a few months ago and had intended to move there early next spring.

TWO MARRIAGES.

Warsaw, Ind., Oct. 27.—D. Nichols, Chicago, formerly of Warsaw, and Miss Ethel Dome, of Monroe township, Kosciusko county, were united in marriage Wednesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ralph Phinney, of Chicago. The bride is a daughter of O. H. Dome, of Monroe township.

Rev. J. A. Kek, pastor of the United Brethren circuit, officiated at the marriage of Orval Bardin, of Pierceton, and Miss Laura M. Johnson, of Packerton, Wednesday morning. The ceremony took place at the parsonage.

CHURCH ASKS FOR STATE MEETING

Invitation Given by Rev. A. J. Folsom for Congregational Convention in This City.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 27.—While in attendance at the Congregational conference which has been held in this city this week Rev. A. J. Folsom, the pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church at Fort Wayne, extended an invitation from the Plymouth church to the state association to hold its annual convention in May at Fort Wayne. The invitation was in writing and it was placed in the hands of Rev. C. R. Lawson, of Fairmont, who will bring it before the conference.

Rev. Mr. Folsom was one of the speakers on the program Tuesday and he delivered an address on old fashioned gospel simplicity, saying the religion of his parents was good enough for him. It was pronounced to have been one of the best addresses of the convention.

Rev. Arthur F. Lindbeck, of Ridgeville, presented the subject, "Some Needs of the Church Today," the Rev. S. L. Van Luven, of Portland, leading the discussion. The Rev. Harry Blunt, of Indianapolis, defined "The Mission of the Church in Social Reconstruction." Rev. H. C. Colburn spoke of "Societies for Boys—the Boy Scouts," and Rev. Van Luven invited the conference to meet next October in Portland.

There are three Congregational conferences in Indiana. The meeting held here was that of the central conference.

OLD DIRECTORS RE-ELECTED.

Marion and Bluffton Construction Company Held Meeting.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 27.—At a meeting held at Bluffton of stockholders of the Marion and Bluffton Construction company, directors were elected to serve for the ensuing year. The directors are the same nine men who served during the past year and are W. A. Kunkel, S. Bender, L. C. Davenport, R. F. Cummins, L. A. Williamson and J. W. Sale, of Bluffton, G. Max Huffman, of Fort Wayne; T. C. Reynolds, of Kokomo, and J. Wood Wilson, of Marion.

This company is the construction company which was organized for the purpose of building the Marion, Bluffton and Eastern traction line, and which turned over the line to the M., B. & E. traction company. The construction company has accomplished the purpose for which it was organized, the construction of the Marion-Bluffton division of the traction line, but it cannot be dissolved and quit business until it gets a settlement with the Moores-Mansfield Construction company, to which a sub-contract for grading was awarded.

BALL PLAYER WILL WED.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 27.—Announcement of the approaching marriage of Guy Spencer, of this city, and Miss Blanche Bottoroff, of Plymouth, has been made and the date has been set for next Monday, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bottoroff. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Spencer, of this city, and met the young woman while pitching ball for the Plymouth team this summer. They will reside in this city after their marriage.

WILL CLOSE THE SCHOOLS.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 27.—The Zanesville school will probably be closed the remainder of the week owing to the scarlet fever scare in that vicinity. Dr. Louis Severin, county health officer, made a trip there Tuesday and ordered the school fumigated, which will be done by the teachers. There are several mild cases of scarlet fever in Zanesville and this has cut down the attendance of the school in the past week.

AGED DECATUR WOMAN DEAD.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Magdalena Bremerkamp, over 88 years of age, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. X. Ehinger, with whom she had resided for years. She was taken ill nine weeks ago and after that rapidly declined.

FIVE JEWS WITH COLUMBUS.

The Real Promoter of the Trip Was Also a Hebrew.

(Boston Transcript.)

At least five Jews were among the company that accompanied Columbus on his first voyage of discovery, according to Lee M. Friedman, who read a paper recently on "Early American Jewish History" before the New England Historic-Genealogical society, in Pilgrim hall.

Mr. Friedman quoted the following as being the beginning of Columbus' journal: "After the Spanish monarchs had expelled the Jews from their kingdoms and lands in January, in that same month they commissioned me to undertake the voyage to India with a properly equipped fleet."

He said that with Columbus on his first voyage there were at least five Jews, among them being Luis de Torres, who acted as interpreter, and Maoshe Birnal Marco, ship's physician. Luis de Santangel, chancellor of the royal house of Aragon, paid the 17,000 ducats (without interest) that aided Columbus to sail to America. It was to him that Columbus sent his first message that he had discovered a new country.

Mr. Friedman said that in nine of teh thirteen original colonies Jewish settlers were to be found. In 1654 the first Jews settled in New York. One Hayman Levy taught the fur business to John Jacob Astor. The first Jewish settlers in Rhode Island came in 1657, but Massachusetts had Jews as early as 1649. In 1634 Mr. and Miss Isaacs settled in Cambridge, and in 1638 Mr. Isaacs held a town position there. Judah Monis was the first professor of Hebrew at Harvard. He received a master's degree as early as 1720. Mr. Friedman spoke of Hayman Solomon, who loaned the continental congress $600,000 to aid Washington while at Valley Forge. He said the interest and sum itself has never been paid by the government.

NOT THE QUESTION TO ASK.

The young mother, who excused herself for placing her five-year-old child in school on the ground that she had already exhausted her resources on her progressive offspring, could sympathize deeply with the distracted instructors who are endeavoring to hold their own with the practical children of the day.

The teacher in a certain city school had laid aside the book and was drawing on her imagination for examples in fractions. In the first place, this teacher, just out of the normal college, had never in her life gone marketing. And she was absorbed in getting numbers capable of the divisions she had in mind.

"Suppose," she suggested, confidently, "the butcher asks you forty-two cents a pound for beef, a that price what would three and three-sevenths pounds come to?"

The scrawny girl to whom this was propounded, who had traveled innumerable times the distance between her home and the grocer's and butcher's, giggled a little—not without contempt.

"It wouldn't come to our flat," she stated decidedly. "Ma'd send me back good 'n' lively if I didn't know better'n to pay that much for beef myself."

In Mexico the loss of a limb to a railroad employe is of frequent occurrence. Neglected injuries to feet, legs and arms are the cause of many amputations which, perhaps, in cooler climates, might have been avoided.

A PICTURESQUE MIX.

All told, it is a picturesque mix. The colonel is out helping his friends of whatsoever complexion—reactionary, standpat, progressive or insurgent—and is splintering lances with whomsoever will joust with him in the lists of the great New York tourney. Judge Parker is flouting the colonel and there are prospects of several new nominators and nominees in Ananias club circles. In Ohio Senator Foraker has been yanked off the stump because he conceives the paramount issue of the campaign to be the "new nationalism" of the colonel and that to Captain Foraker is the equivalent of pronouncing it guilty. Jim Garfield is lifting his voice in that same state for the new nationalism and glorifying its author and keeping significantly mum on the administration and its record. Mr. Garfield is popularly credited with being the main force that has dragged Mr. Foraker from the hustings. Gifford Pinchot is pursuing his heroic way helping here and there a lame friend and sounding the tocsin for conservation, which he declares is the one great issue. The ex-chief forester is not pointing with pride to the Taft achievements nor with any impressive degree of alarm to the general prospect of democratic victory. Mr. Pinchot has a mission and he is sticking pretty close to it. Uncle Joe has no place to roam and spout save within the confines of the Eighteenth Illinois congressional district. Senator Albert Jeremiah Beveridge is racing over Indiana justifying his progressiveness and his vote against the Payne-Aldrich tariff law and Honorable Frederick Landis goes along to reinforce what the senator says, while another member of the justly famous combination of Landis Brothers—Charles Beery—is raising his voice for the Aldrich schedules and the Taft administration and also Beveridge. These details could be multiplied almost infinitely. It simply shows that there has been a mighty rip and a stupendous split. It is a good sign—not of democratic victory but of independent thinking, patriotic voting and a general disposition to do a thing for the thing itself and not because it is tradition. That the democrats will profit from the mixed attitude of the republican party toward itself is of course inevitable, but that the people will ultimately come fully into their own by their awakening sense in politics is the larger and finer prospect.

Ten days more of the campaign remain and when it is over there will not be much difference to note. Little has taken place to remind the average man intent upon his own business that a political struggle is in progress. Here and there the orators strut and fulminate on the platform and the stump, but the great American sovereign has for the most part stayed at home. And if he has not he has made "the meetin' at the hall" or elsewhere an excuse for wandering from his own fireside, for certainly he has not been absorbing much oratory.

Messrs. Hawley and Post have reported themselves alive and well and en route to civilization, just as happy as can be. This last condition confesses more than can be said for the humane men who have started into the wildernesses of the north and cannot be communicated with until they come forth to report no traces of the missing.

That cruel war that involves the colonel and Wants-to-Be Governor Dix in New York has got beyond any stage that can be made a stopping place by the election. There is bound to be trouble between those men; mark it. Their friends will do well to keep 'em apart.

Captain Foraker i sgoing to get those troublesome Roosevelt things out of his system or he is going to have nothing more to do with the Ohio vindication of the Taft policies.

Aviation gets faster and more fatal as the days go by. The science of flying ought to be somewhat better than a method of dying.

TEXAS GOES COATLESS.

It was in a Southern Texas town, a city of perhaps 20,000 inhabitants. A man from one of the middle west cities had just arrived. He was dressed in a suit of French flannel. A negro bellboy stumbling under the weight of several suitcases was showing him the way to the desk of the leading hotel.

In the hurry the man from up north bumped into a person coatless, collarless and perspiring. The man in the French flannel suit gave him a look of disgust. When he reached the desk, in tones loud and commanding, he demanded to know what kind of hotel he was in where half-dressed people were allowed to wander aimlessly around, bumping into guests and making themselves generally obnoxious.

"The man you refer to," replied the clerk, calmly, "is John W. Gates. He owns the hotel."

The pompous man turned around. Of the twenty or more loungers in the hotel lobby not one had a coat on. The only coats in sight were his own and the coat worn by the clerk, yet the majority of the loungers were guests at the hotel, and you couldn't stop at the hotel if you didn't have a fair-sized bank roll. The place didn't have marble pillars, but it was the best within many miles, and the rates were fixed accordingly.

"A coatless regiment," remarked the man, this time smiling.

"Yes," replied the clerk; "one of the regiments that go to make up grand old Texas' coatless army."

It was quite true. Mr. Gates was merely following the Texan fashion. When the hot spell arrives in Texas men take off their coats. In other states men hurry to their tailors or the clothing stores for summer suits of lightweight clothes.

In San Antonio, Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth the same conditions exist. The hotel lobbies are filled with men—men of means, but they are coatless. Only a very small proportion of the men of Texas wear coats, and the majority of coats seen belong to tourists. The average tourist, who bears in mind that old adage, "When in Rome do as Romans do," discard their summer garments soon and just go coatless. The fad seems to be in the very atmosphere. Three-dollar shirts brush elbows with the six-bit variety, and now and then a four-bit shirt looms into sight.

There are certain people in Texas who are pessimistic enough to fear that some day white duck trousers and cream-colored silk coats will be the style in the state in the summers to come. This is not the opinion of the majority.

Texans never took much to coats because they were cumbersome. In the early days they interfered with the quick drawing of a gun, and years have failed to change the style.

Coats may be highly proper in most states, but they are not in Texas. The Texan is nothing if not logical. Although he has the money, he does not believe in throwing it away on some garment of pongee, flannel or mohair that can be worn but a few weeks at the longest.

PREHISTORIC HAIRPINS.

Eve probably caught up her tresses when engaged in housekeeping with long thorns, easily obtainable from the bushes and trees in her front yard. Thornlike pins carved from boxwood, ivory and horn have been found in excavations dating back to the time of the Caesars; and also queer, clumsy combs made of the same materials. In the days of the Caesars Roman maids wore their hair in exceedingly simple fashion, but styles for matrons exceeded in ornateness anything seen in our day. The Roman lady about the house wore her hair caught up under a reticulum or heavy net of colored cords; but for great occasions her locks were dressed by a cinerarius, or handler of the curling irons, and not only were bangs, braids and rats in high favor, but false hair was much used, captive German maids being denuded of their flaxen braids for the enhancement of Roman charms.—Detroit Free Press.

NEW U. S. PALACES

Splendid Piles for State, Justic and Commerce and Labor Departments.

Secretary MacVeagh has just announced plans for the competitons instituted by the government for the designs for the three magnificent buildings to be erected south of Pennsylvania avenue for the state department, the department of justice and the department of commerce and labor, says the Baltimore Sun.

The aggregate will be about $7,780,000, congress providing $1,900,000 for justice $2,200,000 for state and $3,650,000 for commerce and labor. These buildings will constitute a splendid architectural group, fitting harmoniously into the picture now formed around the white house ellipse by the white house, the treasury and state, war and navy buildings.

Half a dozen city blocks, extending from Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue to the Washington monument grounds will be given over to the sites for these new edifices. They will occupy the land bounded by Pennsylvania avenue, the Mall, Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, which already has been acquired. This goes a long way toward carrying into effect the plan for the transformation of the entire southern side of the avenue into a colony of government structures.

The buildings of the departments of state and justice will be three stories high; that for the department of commerce and labor five stories and basement. The ground area of the last named structure will be 90,000 square feet, that of the state buildings 72,000 square feet and that of the justice 57,600. The architectural competition will close December 30, 1910.

The problem of each department is stated in detail in the table of requirements submitted to those who have been invited by the government to enter the competition. The building for the state department will contain offices for the secretary, three assistant secretaries, director of the consular service, counselor and solicitor, bureau of accountants, rolls and library, citizenship appointments, trade relations, near eastern affairs, far eastern, western European, Latin-American affairs, information and translations, the telegraph office, offices of the chief clerk and index bureau. Including offices for clerks and files, the total number of rooms will be 325.

A feature of this building is to be the state dining room, two reception rooms and an international conference room occupying 6,000 square feet of space. In this dining room the great dinners to diplomates and international guests will be given. The conference room will provide facilities for large international gatherings. The lack of such a structure was one reason why the negotiations which concluded the war between Russia and Japan were taken from Washington to Portsmouth, N. H.

The department of justice requires 225 rooms, including accommodations for the attorney general, seven assistant attorneys general, the chief clerk and the divisions of mail and files, superintendent of prisoners, bureau of investigation, library, public lands, appointment clerk, pardon attorney, disbursing officer, attorney in charge of titles, assistant attorneys, divisions of accounts and the stenographic bureau. A feature of this building will be the law library.

For the department of commerce and labor accommodations are to be provided for the secretary, two assistant secretaries, chief clerk, disbursing clerk, appointment clerk, solocitor, bureaus of corporations, statistics, manufactures, light houses, census, investigation, immigration and naturalization, navigation, fisheries, the coast and geodetic survey, steamboat inspection service, library, correspondence and law sections, computing division, tariff division, consular division and the divisions of internal commerce, compilation, publications and supplies and accounts. The census bureau alone will require 75,000 square feet of floor space. A feature of this building will be an aquarium for the bureau of fisheries. The building will contain 450 rooms.

The department of justice and commerce and labor now are scattered over the city in rented buildings, and it is believed the erection of new homes will save the government considerable rent money. The state department is the only one of the three in its own home, but it is crowded and has been forced to rent some outside quarters.

CODY ADDRESSES BOY SCOUTS.

Old Plainsman Bids Farewell to Lads and Wishes Them Good Luck.

(Los Angeles Examiner.)

The story of Buffalo Bill—ever new and fascinating in its sturdy realism—was unfolded once more before a mighty audience Monday in the Wild West hippodrome at Washington street and Vermont avenue. It was the first of the two days' farewell appearance, and 600 American Boy Scouts, in khaki, were the guests of honor of the veteran rider.

Their lusty cheers swelled the storm of applause that greeted him as he circled his cavalrymen and equestriennes at the opening of the exhibition. And when the famous scout, mounted upon his white charger, addressed the lads in the plain language of experience upon the wholesome lessons to be learned from closer contact with Nature, there was not a man, woman or child in the vast multitude who did not realize the solemnity of the moment.

"I am glad of the opportunity to meet you, boys," said the veteran scout, his clear eyes lingering with a friendly look upon the eager faces of his hearers. "It may be the last time we shall see each other, and a word of encouragement might help you. The organization to which you belong is one that will make history in this country, for it will be the means of giving you health and noble manhood.

"Work hard, boys, and speak the truth always and under all circumstances. You will grow into perfect men, trained to control yourselves, and live a sturdy life. In a few years you will be members of a formidable army of peace. Your knowledge of practical things will make you valuable members of society, and you will always remember the years spent as American Boy Scouts as having been the happiest in your lives. Good-bye, boys, and good luck to you."

NIGHT SCHOOL

The Night School conducted by the International Business College affords an excellent opportunity for those who are employed during the day for securing a thorough business training. The same studies are taught, the same teachers are employed and the same facility for thorough and practical work is afforded that our day students enjoy.

There is hardly a more pleasant, and certainly no more profitable way of spending the evenings of fall and winter than in attending our Night School. The studies instead of being tiresome and irksome are pleasant and fascinating. Students are engaged in learning business as business is actually done in the best business houses. They are storing up a vast fund of practical knowledge that will be useful to themselves in after life, no matter what pursuits they may follow. Their lives will be made better and more fruitful in satisfactory results. A Night School course will pay rich dividends, and the time and money expended will prove a profitable investment. Our terms are reasonable, our facilities first class, and everything possible will be done to make those sessions pleasant and profitable for the student.

Do you wish to know more about bookkeeping, penmanship, shorthand, typewriting, business papers, commercial law, correspondence, spelling, in short, all branches of study that comprise a first-class business education? Then do not fail to attend our Night School.

New term, day and evening, Monday, Oct. 31.

HOW LANE SAW WASHINGTON

Although Only 86, the Old Virginian Makes a Satisfactory Explanation.

(Washington Letter to the Chicago Evening Post.)

In Washington lives John Lane, a descendant on his father's side of an old Virginia family, and on his mother's side of an old New England family. For some years he has liked to puzzle people whom he met by telling them that he was the only living person who ever saw George Washington. Now as Washington died in 1799 and as Mr. Lane is only eighty-six years old, it can be understood that persons to whom the statement of having seen George Washington was made were naturally incredulous and looked on their informant as either being something of a joker or as being something which they did not care to mention when facing him.

When the old Virginian has excited curiosity or incredulity to the highest pitch he will make explanation. When he was a boy about ten years old he was standing on the road in Georgetown when a Mount Vernon stage coach passed. The driver knew the boy and asked him if he wanted a ride. He did, and he climbed up and took his seat beside the driver and stuck there all the way to Mount Vernon. It happened that at the time of their arrival the body of Washington was being moved from the old tomb to the new one, and in order to make sure that the ghouls who had entered the old sepulcher some time before had not disturbed the remains of the "father of his country," the coffin was opened and the boy Lane was lifted up to look upon the face of the "first American." So it is that today Mr. Lane can say truthfully that he is the only living person who ever saw George Washington. Everybody else who was present at the removal of the remains died long ago.

Smoke a Gold Seal Cigar.

THE BOY SCOUTS

By E. T. JACKSON, Scoutmaster.

"If you are going to do anything permanent for the average man, you have got to begin before he is a man. The chance of success lies in working with the boy, not with the man."

The boy Scout movement is sweeping the country from ocean to ocean and already we have one hundred thousand boys in uniform in this country.

The best judges of the boy's companions are his parents and himself working together and the American Boy Scout movement takes none of that responsibility from them. It does however, aim to develop the boy's faculties and all his mental and physical powers shall be improved and the responsibility shall be less imperative.

The organization is well under way in this city and Scoutmaster Jackson has received up to date 125 signed applications and the boys are joining at the rate of from 8 to 10 a day. Each drill night he is besieged by boys from 12 years of age up; at the present time he is refusing applications to boys who, though 12 years of age, are small in stature, as the organization has already taken several "hikes" in the country and he finds that the smaller boys are unable to stand the endurance tests and Scoutmaster Jackson is asking for larger boys and is now receiving calls from boys 14 to 20 years of age.

We will have in this city a regiment of American Boy Scouts, officered the same as a regiment in the regular army and the larger boys should not hesitate to take up the work. There will be a large drum and bugle corps, a signal, bicycle and ambulance crops and as soon as the hall is secured and equipped, rifles will be secured and the boys drilled in the manual of arms.

Some of the larger boys are hesitating about joining this organization because guns are not carried and staffs are, but no uniformed body of men make a neater and prettier appearance than the American Boy Scout carrying his staff with the pennant attached, however, this not strictly a military organization.

While the boys in this organization will be drilled in foot movements and with rifles as laid down in the regular drill manual, too much drill will not be introduced as it has a tendency to destroy the individuality and once the boy learns the drill, it bores him to be continually drilling and he longs to be tearing about and it blunts his keenness, therefore the scoutmaster is laying plans for a good time for the boys this winter.

As soon as the boy joins the organization he becomes a tenderfoot and in a few weeks becomes a first or second class scout, according to his capabilities and receives his promotion after passing an examination.

Before he becomes a scout he must take the Scouts' Oath and know the Scouts' Laws.

Chief Quartermaster A. H. Singleton, of the United States navy, has tendered his services to Scoutmaster Jackson and the same have been accepted and together with the regular drillmaster, A. E. Jornod, the boys are being rapidly brought to perfection in foot movements and each evening shows a wonderful improvement.

Arrangements are being made for cross country "hikes" and Scoutmaster Jackson would be pleased to hear from any or all of the farmers in this county, giving him permission to cross their farms and the use of their woods, as every one of the boys obey the Scout Law as laid down, the first and eighth law will be your guarantee that the boys will take care of your property and preserve your forests.

The American boy is a fun-loving individual, and that characteristic will be utilized to develop him. He will be initiated into all the mysteries of woodcraft and the proper way to make up camp life and campaigning is thoroughly brought out.

Who Suffer in Silence

No woman has the health, the strength, or the vitality to withstand the tortures, both mental and physical, that go hand in hand with all functional disorders.

You cannot do it alone—you cannot rely entirely upon your constitution, no matter how strong it is—you must have help. The delicate functional organs must be strengthened—if not they gradually weaken the entire system.

NYAL'S

Vegetable Prescription

will correct the irregularities

restore the functional organs to their normal healthy action, soothe and quiet the nerves, build up a nourishing blood supply, and increase the health in general—one that is permanent.

There is absolutely no need of your suffering as long as we sell Nyal's Vegetable Prescription—it is sure relief.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

IN THE CHURCHES

TWO STATE CONVENTIONS COMING HERE EARLY NEXT YEAR

King's Daughters and Sons and the Congregational Churches of Indiana.

Early in the year Fort Wayne will entertain two great religious state conventions, The King's Daughters and Sons and the state conference of the Congregational churches in Indiana, the former some time during the latter part of March and the latter in May.

The King's Daughters and Sons is an interdenominational organization and has a large membership throughout the state. Its last state meeting was held in Indianapolis and that time Fort Wayne extended an invitation for the meeting next year and it was accepted. Its delegates will number over 200, and its state meeting will bring to this city more than that number of visitors.

The state meeting of the Congregational churches will be attended by at least 150 delegates and a large number of ministers. It will be the annual meeting of the body for the transaction of business and the discussion of matters of importance to the denomination.

The sessions will be held for three days at the Plymouth Congregational church. During its sessions speakers of national reputation will be here. Among them will be that great pulpit orator, Rev. Washington Gladden, of Columbus, O., and Dr. Henry C. King, the president of the Oberlin, O., university both of whom will deliver special evening addresses.

Rev. A. J. Folsom, the pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, who was in attendance this week at Marion at the district conference, extended the invitation to the delegates for the state meeting here. He has returned from Marion and today said to the Sentinel reporter that the invitation, without doubt, would be accepted. This was the assurance he received while at Marion.

DISTRICT MEETING BEGUN.

Woman's Foreign Missionary Society Convention Held Here.

When Mrs. J. K. Cecil, as president, called the district convention of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. churches of the Fort Wayne district to order at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Wayne Street M. E church delegates were in attendance from all the counties, the district comprising northeastern Indiana.

Mrs. J. A. Beatty was programmed for the opening devotions and the greetings to the district by Mrs. J. H. Binford, of Greenfield, followed by the report of the branch meeting by Nellie E. Mason, of Bluffton, and an hour with the young people by Mrs. Nellie P. Chandler, of Pennville. There will be a missionary address at the convention church this evening by Mrs. E. H. Richards, a missionary to Africa and the musical program will be as follows

Organ—

a Gavotte from Mignon.....Thomas
b Indian Summer sketch....Brevier
Mr. Alfred Holsworth.

Solo—"O Divine Redeemer".....Gounod
Miss Florence Robinson.

Trombone Solo—
"The Song That Reached My Heart" ..... Jordan
Mr. Alvin R. Gillom.

"O Dry Those Tears"————Del Riego
Miss Agnes Stemen.

Pageant—Standard bearers of First M. E. church.

The convention continues tomorrow with the opening praise service conducted by Mrs. T. M. Hill. Reports, the election of officers, other business and addresses by Mrs. J. H. Binford and Mary E Melton will occupy the forenoon hours. In the afternoon the program is as follows

Meeting of district officers.
Devotions—Mrs. Baker Hamilton.
Vocal Solo—Mrs. W. A. Greist, Fort Wayne.
"The Joy of Children's Work"—Mrs. J. E. Graham, Fort Wayne.
Music.
Practical Plans for the Year's Meetings—Mrs. O. E. Mohler, Fort Wayne.

Mother and Daughter

Both Glad to Recommend Parisian Sage the Guaranteed Hair Grower and Dandruff Cure.

Mrs. J. R. Burgess writes from 511 Plum St., Danville, Va., June 4, 1910:

"I have used Parisian Sage and find it to be all you claim for it, and cheerfully recommend it to any one who is suffering from any hair, dandruff, or scalp trouble."

On the same date Ruth Odille Burgess, the charming little daughter of Mrs. Burgess, wrote:

"I am only a little girl, but I want to tell what Parisian Sage has done for me. I had a scalp disease that looked like dandruff and when it was combed up there would be a bloody water under the dandruff. Mamma tried everything in the way of hair tonics without results, until she saw the advertisement of Parisian Sage; she got a bottle and it cured me, but kept on using it. Now I have as beautiful a head of hair as any girl."

Men, women and children, in every section of America, who are using ordinary commercial hair tonics should give Parisian Sage a trial. It is so far ahead of all others that one application will prove its great superiority.

It is guaranteed by Meyer Bros. Co. to stop failing hair and itching scalp, and to drive out all dandruff in two weeks, or money back. It grows hair in abundance and gives to the hair a lustrous and fascinating appearance. 50 cents a large bottle at Meyer Bros. Co. and druggists everywhere.

FORMERLY PASTOR HERE.

Anniversary of Rev. C. F. Kriete Celebrated at Louisville.

Rev. C. F. Kriete, formerly pastor of Salem Reformed church in Fort Wayne, celebrated last Sunday the twentieth anniversary of his pastorate of the Louisville, Ky., church of the same name. Rev. Mr. Kriete will be well remembered by many old friends in Fort Wayne.

He was born in Prussia, was graduated from Heidelberg college and the Reformed Theological seminary at Tiffin, O., and thirty-five years ago came to Fort Wayne for his first pastoral work at Salem church, where he remained fifteen years. He has been notably successful at Louisville, where he has a church membership of 600, and has been president of the synod of the northwest eight terms. A few months ago Rev. Dr. Kriete's second son was ordained to the ministry, and is under appointment as a missionary to Japan.

WILL ACCEPT THE CALL.

Rev. Theo. F. Hahn Goes to Baltimore as Lutheran Pastor.

A meeting of the congregation of English Lutheran Church of the Redeemer was held last evening and the resignation of Rev. Theodore F. Hahn as pastor, mention of which was made in these columns some days ago, was accepted. Rev. Hahn will accept the call extended to him by the Emmanuel Lutheran church at Baltimore. Md. Rev. H. P. Eckert, the president of the Missouri synod, was present at the meeting and suggested several names of ministers whom the congregation could secure as pastors. No definite action in this regard has yet been taken.

VERY ENTHUSIASTIC OVER VISIT TO AMERICA

Cardinal Vannutelli Makes a Report of Trip to Pope Pius X.

Rome, Oct. 27.—The pope gave a private audience today to Cardinal Vincenzo Vannutelli, who recently returned from his mission to America, where he was the papal delegate to the Eucharist congress at Montreal. The cardinal described the congress as notably successful, and he also dwelt with enthusiasm on the impressions he received in his subsequent visits to New York city, where he was present at the consecration ceremonies at St. Patrick's cathedral, Washington and other of the large cities of the United States.

He admired the astonishing growth of the American nation, which he said foretold a magnificent future. He added that the Catholic church at the present time occupied a prominent position in American life, the Catholics being at once staunch, patriotic citizens and zealous church men, and so constituted a strong guarantee of order and an efficacious barrier against subversive elements.

The pontiff was much pleased at the recital of the legate, whose journey in America his holiness said he had followed with interest.

Cardinal Vannutelli admits that he saw John Redmond at Buffalo, but denies that he expressed an opinion regarding home rule for Ireland.

PROBE WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 27.—A conference on religious and rescue work and legislation and law enforcement constituted the program of today's session of the American Purity congress. That detectives in the employ of the American Purity federation might make a report of their investigation of any possible white slave traffic in New Orleans was an announcement which aroused no little interest.

LIQUID CURES ECZEMA WHERE SALVES FAIL

"In regard to skin diseases, medical authorities are now agreed on this:

Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid.

WASH THE GERMS OUT.

A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D. D. D. Prescription. This penetrates to the disease germs and destroys them, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 25 cent trial bottle will start the cure and give you instant relief.

MRS. ED. M. WILSON IS 12TH DISTRICT CHAIRMAN

Fort Wayne Woman Honored by Women's Club Federation Meet.

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Edward M. Wilson, of Fort Wayne, was elected Twelfth district chairman at today's session of the Indiana Federation of Women's clubs convention here.

The child question, in its various aspects, was the subject of today's session of the federation of clubs. Indiana children, their legal, social and physical welfare all were discussed. Dr. U. D. Weatherly, of Indiana university, addressed the gathering on "Child Labor Laws in Indiana."

Officers are Chosen.

At the Wednesday afternoon session of the federation officers were elected as follows:

President—Grace Julian Clarke, Irvington.

First Vice President—Mrs. O. P. Kinsey, Valparaiso.

Second Vice President—Mrs. L. J. Cox, Terre Haute.

Corresponding Secretary—Miss Vida Newsome, Columbus.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Edwin Knapp, Winona.

Treasurer—Mrs. G. C. Markle, Winchester.

Auditor—Mrs. E. B. Hyatt, Washington.

The Resolutions.

The following resolutions have been adopted by the federation:

Resolved, That the Indiana Federation of Clubs appreciates the necessity for the suppression of those practices of short weighing that defraud the consumer and contribute to the ever increasing cost of food, and hereby respectfully urges the passage by the general assembly of such legislation as will establish a system of weights and measures and provide suitable means for its enforcement.

Whereas, The Indiana State Federation of Clubs recognizes the great work of the state board of health in conserving the health of the people, preventing the sale of adulterated and misbranded foods and medicines, and improving the sanitary conditions surrounding the production and distribution of food by the active and energetic enforcement of food and drug, and sanitary food laws; and

Whereas, It is apparent that manufacturing interests are endeavoring by injunction suits to nullify such legislation and to harass and hinder the officials charged with enforcement of the law in the performance of their duty; and

Whereas, It is evident that such action is being instigated by manufacturers whose goods contain preservatives and other ingredients which have no place in food products and whic are hforbidden by law to be so used, and the purpose of such action is to let down the bars to fraud and adulteration; therefore be it

Resolved, That we heartily support the work of the state board of health and pledge our support to its every effort on behalf of the people.

Board Gives Support.

And be it further resolved, That we urge the state board of health to resist every effort made by injunction or otherwise, which may tend to weaken the efficiency of the law or in any particular to restrict the scope of the notices of short weighing that defraud the customer and contribute to the ever increasing cost of food and hereby respectively urges the passage by the general assembly of such legislation as will establish a system of its operation.

Whereas, We are convinced that the best interests of American children, and therefore of the American people, can only be safeguarded by an independent department and an independent cabinet officer devoted to their interest, be it

Resolved, That the Indiana State Federation of Clubs hereby second the recommendation of the General Federation of Women's Clubs that a separate department of education be established in the national government.

(The above resolution was referred to the committee on education. There is no doubt of its adoption.)

Resolved, That the Indiana State Federation of Clubs recommends the adoption of the mountain laurel as the national floral emblem.

(Action on the above was deferred for another year. As all the states are adopting this emblem Indiana will no doubt do the same.)

Resolved, That we vigorously deprecate the publication of such details of trials as are a menace to the public morals, and also that we ask all public spirited persons to refuse support to those journals, that in the daily publishing of this and other objectionable material, do ignore their high privilege.

Resolved, That we oppose this evil in practical ways and especially in the line of developing public opinion to appreciate its danger, to aid us in this effort.

Vocational Training.

Resolved, That inasmuch as only a small per cent of children ever reach the high schools, the majority entering the wage earning class on leaving the grades, we are in favor of vocational training in all the grades, and that we heartily endorse the movement to establish trade schools in our state.

Resolved, That we urge upon club women the duty of taking steps to secure the appointment of boards of children's guardians in all counties where there are no such boards in accordance with the act approved March 11, 1901.

Resolved, That our club women be encouraged to study the world-wide movement for the substitution of the system of law for the system of war, and to aid in creating an intelligent public sentiment before the third Hague conference for the settlement of all international differences by law instead of by violence.

Resolved, That we urge upon the Indiana legislature to enact measures and extend existing laws providing for the use of safety devices and for better inspection service in mines, mills, factories and on railroads, to the end that industrial and railway accidents may be reduced to the lowest minimum; and further that we act for a system of workingmen's compensation for losses by accident that will be equitable to them, and their dependent families and to the employer.

White Slave Traffic.

Whereas, Late investigation reveal the horrors of the white slave traffic, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Indiana Federation urges the enactment of a law that shall effectually prohibit the traffic.

Resolved, That the Indiana Federation of Clubs usges the club women to strict enforcement of the compulsory education law in the various communities.

Resolved, That the Indiana Federation library legislation and authorizes its legislative committee and its library extension committee to work for the enactment of such legislation.

(a) That the library law called act of 1901, etc., be amended so that in making appointment, persons who have resided for a period of one year shall be eligible, instead of requiring a residence of five years.

(b) An annual appropriation of at least $10,000 for the library commission in order to enable it to further develop the organization work and the traveling library department.

(c) A state library building.

(d) The extension of the township law to include neighboring townships.

(e) The codification of the library laws of the state.

The resolution in regard to the library work is explained in connection with the resolution. It is shown that the state library cannot grow in its present quarters. The present library laws are too numerous and should be simplified.

PLAYGROUNDS CLOSE MONDAY.

Uncertain Weather Brings Season to End Until Spring.

Frosty weather and sudden changes in the weather with the uncertainty of the season as to warm sunshine, is bringing an end for the year of the open playground. The Playgrounds' association announces that all playgrounds will be closed on Monday next. This will make Sunday the last day for romps and sports for the children on the public grounds. Uncertainty of weather and the fact that many children are not clad warmly enough to make such vigorous exercise as they take on the playgrounds, always unattended by severe colds, brings the order about to pack away the paraphernalia for the winter. The fact that Monday is Hallowe'en and that there might be danger of damage to the various playground apparatus by thoughtless young men is another reason for the setting of the date so early.

Manager W. E. Black, of the Western Union, left this afternoon for Cleveland and Youngstown, O., for a few days, and Col. O. L. Perry is temporarily back in his old position as manager.

Miss Mabel Evans, of Defiance, O., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Charles McCulloch.

Miss Ella McCulloch returned to Cincinnati today after a visit with Miss Harriet Fowler.

The Hermits club will give a progressive supper on Monday evening of a Hallowe'en character.

Mrs. M. S. Mahurin and daughter, Charlotte, have returned from a few days' visit in Sturgis, Mich.

Miss Helen Peters will leave on Saturday for Kansas City, Mo., to visit a school friend, Miss Elva Faeth.

The ladies of the Dywyki club were entertained yesterday by Mrs. Albert Schroeder, of 1229 Huestis avenue.

Miss Ruth Nelson, of Lagrange, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kent, of Jackson street. Miss Nelson is Mrs. Kent's sister.

Mrs. John C. Pfeiffer will entertain the ladies of the H. W. club at her home, 820 Columbia avenue, tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Mrs. S. Kraus, of East Lewis street, was given a surprise party by a number of friends last evening who took with them baskets of luncheon and a number of gifts for Mrs. Kraus' new home. Those who participated in the party were Misses Florence Schwartz, Minnie Conn, Sarah Troutman, Anna Boss, Millie Busse, Ida Kern, Nellie Quillinan, Emma Frohmuth.

Mrs. Frank Ruhe arranged a surprise party for Mr. Ruhe last evening in celebration of his birthday anniversary. The guests were the ladies who form the O. C. C. club and their husbands.

Mrs. Charles Guild and daughter, Marian, who have been here several days visiting Mrs. Will H. Olds, will continue their visit until Saturday instead of returning to Burlington, Ia. today, as first planned to do.

Mrs. Bertha Motz, of Hay City, Kan., is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Stella Link, of East Berry street, and expects to remain here all winter. Mrs Motz will be remembered by many friends as Miss Bertha Hall.

Mrs. Llewellyn Harrison accompanied her mother, Mrs. Jennie S. Woodward, who had been visiting at her daughter's home in Arkansas, here last evening. Mrs. Woodward is at Hope hospital where she is seriously ill and Mrs. Harrison is the guest for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Taft.

Miss Ida Current and Homer Kelsey will be quietly married this evening at the parsonage of the United Brethren church by Rev. G. F. Byrer. Miss Mary Burns and George Geerken will be the attendants. After a wedding supper the bride and groom will go directly to housekeeping in St. Joe boulevard.

The members of the Arbor Vitae club were entertained by Miss Florence McMillen, of South Clinton street, last evening in honor of Miss Nina Messenger. Cards were played and a luncheon was another part of the evening's pleasure. The decorations were of a Hallowe'en character. Miss Delia Piepenbrink won the prize at cards.

Among the Hallowe'en celebrations will be a party at the home of Miss Alice Worden on Monday evening which will be given by members of the Pallas Athena circle, with Misses Worden, Virginia Bash, Hadji Dawson, Alma Dreier, Mabel Holt, Bertha Peters and Eliza Hanna as hostesses.

Mrs. Cady Swift entertained yesterday a company of friends of Mrs Christ Scherer, of Chicago, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Philip Dondero. The arrangements for the pleasure of the company were of a Hallowe'en character. Corn stalks stood in corners of the rooms, jack-o'-lanterns stood in available places, carrots fresh from the garden with their own foliage enhanced the decorative scheme and the refreshments displayed the proper colors. Altogether no one was allowed to forget the season of the year during the afternoon. The time was spent with games.

Miss Linda Kayser, of West Jefferson street, gave a Hallowe'en party last evening that eclipsed anything of the kind so far this season in the elaborateness of the decorations and arrangements. The house was trimmed throughout, even the the cellar, with autumn leaves, stalks of corn, pumpkin lanterns, vegetables of color like carrots and beets, hollowed out and the space occupied by lighted candles, and beautiful bouquets of marigolds, asters and outdoor grown chrysanthemums. The electric lights were shaded in yellow, apples were hung on a string ready for the biting without touching with hands and cider was served from a witch's caldron simulated with electric bulbs covered with yellow paper. Miss Hulda Kayser was the witch and she wore a steeple hat of black and a scarlet coat and held a broom of faggots with which she threatened to sweep everyone away. The supper table was laid in the cellar, covered with yellow paper and in its center was a large red cabbage with the leaves spread apart and the openings filled with grapes of different colors. At supper there were served lemon tarts, ice cream in orange holders, bananas decorated to resemble cornstalks and more substantial food as well. Above the table hung toy imps, black cats and witches and live ghosts appeared every now and then, peering from some darkened corner to give the company the necessary "creepy" feeling. Mrs. August Hortsmeyer and Mrs. Sophie Baade assisted Miss Kayser in entertaining. There were 35 guests and partners for supper were found by following spiderwebs of thread that had been tangled together and carried to different parts of the house.

Koenemann—Miller.

Miss Anna Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Miller, of South Hanna street, and Mr. Herman Koenemann, a clerk in the silk department of the Rurode store, were married on Wednesday evening at the home of the bride by Rev. Henry Luehr, of Zion's Lutheran church. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock in the presence of relatives and a few friends. The bride, who is quite pretty in appearance and winning in manner, wore a becoming traveling dress of blue cloth with waist of Persian silk. She held a bouquet of bride roses and later, when she left on her wedding trip, wore a very stylish hat of blue and a long coat to match her dress. For the wedding supper served immediately after congratulations had been offered, the table and rooms were decorated with white chrysanthemums, roses and smilax. Mr. and Mrs. Koenemann will remain in Chicago for a few days and on their return will go to housekeeping in Webster street.

Limecooley—Clark.

(Columbia City Post.)

Mr. William John Limecooley, jr., of Fort Wayne and Miss Ruth Jeanette Clark, of this city, were quietly wedded at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Leah Clark, on East Market street, Rev. W. D. Ziegler officiating. The groom is a son of William Henry Limecooley, sr., of Fort Wayne, and has been employed on the Pennsylvania lines as telegraph operator. He is a nephew of Mrs. J. C. Miller, of this city, and a young man of character and ability, who will rapidly advance himself in his profession. His bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Clark, and is a charming and vivacious young lady who has a large circle of friends. They left on the evening train for Thompson, Iowa, to spend a month with the bride's sister, Mrs. E. L. Hatten, and at the end of that period the groom will accept a position that has been offered him in the Northwestern railway terminal yards at St. Paul, Minnesota.

HAT WITH DENT IN BRIM.

It is the simplest kind of remodeling to change a last year's big mushroom shape into a stunning 1911 model. For only a dent in the brim, made with the thumb and forefinger, is required to secure a new "nicked" picture shape.

This change, of course, providing the big hat is covered with velvet, of which all the handsome picture hats are made this year, little trimming is required. On those big, smart shapes a towering feather, like the one in the photograph, is all that is essential.

Recipes.

Fried Apple Sauce—Melt in a sauce pan a large tablespoonful of butter and turn in one quart of sliced unpared apples (preferably red skinned, sprinkle with sufficient sugar to make them pleasantly tart. Cover tightly and simmer slowly until tender. Serve immediately either plain or rubbed through a sieve.

Stuffed Shoulder of Mutton—Have the blade removed from the shoulder, then stuff the cavity with the following mixtures: One cupful of bread crumbs, one tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of chopped onion, one teaspoonful of salt, one-third of a teaspoonful of pepper, half a dozen chopped mushrooms and sufficient melted butter—about one-quarter of a cupful—to thoroughly moisten. Sew or fasten up the opening. Put a bed of vegetables in the bottom of the pan and on this lay the meat. Pour in one cupful of water or stock, cover closely and place in a hot oven for half an hour. Uncover and finish the cooking, basting every ten minutes and allowing fifteen minutes to the pound. Thicken, season and strain the gravy and send to the table in a boat.

HOT TAMALES RECIPE.

While there are several kinds of tamales the best are those made from chicken. For chicken tamales boil one large chicken or a little more than five pounds beef in salted water and when tender chop the meat fine. Boil two pounds of corn and a handful of lime in water until the skins of the corn are loosened, then wash the lime from the corn and grind it fine.

If you do not care to do this work use corn meal, though it will not be as distinctively Mexican as the cooked corn. Then select a dozen red chili peppers, peel and seed and after softening by soaking and simmering in boiling water drain, dry and pound into a mortar or grind fine with three pieces of garlic until of a paste like consistency. Take the liquor in which the meat was boiled and stir into it the ground corn, then cook like mush.

Fry a small chopped onion in a little lard and add a teaspoonful of flour, and when the onion has commenced to brown add the peppers and cook for five minutes. Then add the chopped meat and season the mixture with finely chopped olives, salt, pepper and a little sugar. Add to the hot mush a comparatively large piece of butter or lard and salt to season. A little tomato may also be put in with the pepper and garlic paste, as well as hot chilis if the dish is hot.

When the chicken or beef mixture has cooked thoroughly, spread the corn husks with the prepared meat paste, then add a layer of the chopped meat and olives. Put on another husk, spread with meat, and so continue until the filling is the size required.

Roll the husks so the meat may be completely surrounded with the paste, turn the ends in securely with twine and steam from three-quarters of an hour to an hour. After half an hour put the bottom tamales on top. Send to the tables in their husks, that they may be eaten piping hot.

ECONOMY IN USE OF SHEETS AND TOWELS.

Sheets show first signs of wear down the middle, which becomes thin and worn looking, and if left breaks into holes, but this may be prevented for some time longer and the sheet kept whole and unpached if directly it shows signs of wear it is cut down the middle lengthwise, the selvidges bought together and joined by oversewing, and the new sides hemmed.

Later, when beginning to wear thin again, the sheet may be cut down to fit a smaller bed or cot, being either turned the other way round or having the worst parts taken out, and finally can be converted into a dust sheet, for which it may be worth while machining portions of another old sheet over any large holes.

Pillow and bolster cases may be made to last longer for ordinary use if the bottom is unpicked directly any signs of wear are noticed, and the material then folded so that the seam which had been down the side now comes down the middle, the bottom then being joined up again, or bolster cases which are wearing may be unpicked and folded in the other direction, to furnish pillow cases for cots.

Economy is served in the case of towels by turning sides to middles, as recommended for sheets, and finally two or three laid one above the other and machined together (round and across a few times) makes good, thick ovencloths.

The remains of plain linen towels, with no loose "fluff" may be joined together and will make good cloths for dusting oilcloth and linoleum or polished floors, being used slightly damp, and old tea cloths may similarly be machined together, the best parts of them for dust cloths.

Any necessary repairs should, of course, be made before linen is put in to the wash tub, as in it thin places are likely to become holes, and holes made bigger.

DETAILS FOR KNITTING MEN'S HALF HOSE FOR COLD WEATHER USE.

Four Steel Knitting Needles and Four Ounces Four Ply—Then Proceed According to Directions—And the Socks Should Be Attractive.

Materials required:—4 oz. four-ply supertingering, 4 steel knitting needles No. 13. Cast on 72 stiches, 24 on each of 3 needles. Work in rib of knit 2, purl 2, for 3 inches—1st round of pattern, * knit 2, purl 1, knit 1, purl 1; repeat from * all round—2d round. * Knit 3, purl 3; repeat from * all round. Continue to work these 2 rounds for 7½ inches, measured below the ribbing. For the heel, divide the stitches so as to have 33 stiches on the back needle, leaving the remainder on the other needles for the instep.

On the back needle work 34 rows thus: First row, knit 16, purl 1, knit 16 (the purl is the seamstitch;) second row, purl 16, knit 1 (seam.) purl 16 (always slip the first stitch on every row;) repeat these two rows. Thirty-fifth row, slip 1, knit 15, knit 2 together, purl 1 (seam.) knit 2 together, knit 4; turn, leaving 10 stitches on the needle. Thirty-sixth row, slip 1, purl 4, knit 1 (seam.) purl 5; turn, leaving 10 stitches; * slip 1, knit 1, knit 2 together, knit 1, purl 1 (seam.) knit 1, knit 2 together, knit 2 and knit 1 of the 10 stitches; turn, and purl back, taking 1 of the 10 stitches. Repeat from * till the stitches are reduced to 11 in all; turn, and purl back on these 11 stitches; knit 1 row. For the foot, pick up and knit 17 stitches along the first side of heel, and knit the first 3 stitches from the instep needle, making 20 in all.

Knit in pattern along the instep needle to within 3 of the end; knit these 3 plain on the needle to be used for the other side of the heel. Pick up and knit 18 stitches along this side of the heel, making 21 stitches on the needle. Divide the 11 stitches left on the heel between the two back needles, making 26 on each, and 33 on the front or instep needle. Knit plain on the 1st and 3rd needles, and in pattern on the 2nd. On * the 1st needle knit plain to within 3 of the end, knit 2 together, knit 1. On the instep needle work in pattern.

On the third needle knit 1, knit 2 together, knit plain to the end. Work 3 rounds without decreasing. Repeat from * till reduced to 17 stitches on the back needle, 16 on the other and 33 on the front or instep needle. Then, continue without decreasing till the foot measures 7 inches from the back of heel (not stretched.) Knit plain all round for 1 inch. For the toe, divide the stitches on the instep needle in half, making the center the starting point; now divide the other stitches on the two back needles, so that there are 22 stitches on each of three needles. On the first needle, which should start from the center of the instep, knit 1, knit 2 together, knit to within 3 of the end of needle, knit 2 together, knit 1. Second needle—Knit 1, knit 2 together, knit to within 3 of the end of needle, knit 2 together, knit 1. Third needle—Knit 1, knit 2 together, knit to within 3 of the end of the needle, knit 2 together, knit 1, thus reducing 6 stitches in this round.

Knit six rounds plain, then decrease as before on all three needles; knit five rounds plain, decrease again in the same way; knit four rounds plain, and so on till decreasing in every alternate round, and the stitches are reduced to eighteen. The toe should measure two or two and a half inches. Divide the stitches on two needles. Break off the wool, leaving a long end, and thread a wool needle. "On the front needle put through the first stitch as if knitting, and take off; put through next as if purling, and do not take off, says The Queen. On back needle put through as if purling and take off; put through next as if knitting, and do not take off. Repeat from (*) to end.

"The Light Eternal."

The Cincinnati Post of Oct. 25, says of "The Light Eternal:"

"Eugenie Blair, supported by an able company, gave a thoroughly satisfactory presentation of 'The Light Eternal' at the Walnut Sunday. The play, an adaptation of Cardinal Wiseman's 'Fabiola' and reminiscent of 'The Sign of the Cross,' is a well-constructed portrayal of the Roman era marked by Christian martyrdom. Its conflict between Pagan and Christian is productive of wholesome religious inspiration and its strong current of sacrificial love gives Miss Blair opportunity for excellent emotional acting. The Marco Valerius of Geo. A. Lessey and the Corvinus Turagus of John Milton are especially good interpretations. Each of the other roles is adequately given. Effective settings serve to complete the best offering the theater's patrons have had this season."

FREE RHEUMATISM CURE

A Home Cure Will Be Given FREE By One Who Had It.

In the spring of 1892 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bed ridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I will send a free trial of this precious remedy by mail, postpaid, to any sufferer who writes for it. Just fill out the coupon below and mail it to me today.

WHY THE FASHIONS?

There's No Mystery About Making of Them, Its Merely Plain Business.

Season after season, year in and year out, "the fashions" present themselves in an endless succession of changes, says the London Times. Where do they come from and how do they come? Who invents them? It seems a mysterious business, and there is, in fact, a good deal of uncertainty and caprice about it, but no mystery. It is a regular process conducted by definite and intelligible principles, which are at bottom just the same old business principles that govern other things. The fashions are business, and only different from other business in the fact that their essential quality is changed; they are clothes illuminated by change. The same quality enters into some other things, too, but not nearly to the same extent, for very simple and sufficient reasons. There is more demand and at the same time more scope for change in dress than in other things, such as furniture, houses, meals or modes of shaking hands. Change is novelty and desired mainly because it attracts attention and confers distinction, and these objects are more immediately and effectively attained in proportion to the prominence of the personal element.

Nothing is so close to the person as clothes; nothing so effectively attracts attention to the person. At the same time they are more perishable than furniture and houses; they need constant renewals, and the possibility of variation are unlimited. Consequently dress offers a field for fashion or novelty so superior to any other that it has annexed the word. The "fashions" have come to mean novelty in dress—and especially women's dress—for the same reasons, because it is more important for women to attract personal attention than for men. There are fashions in men's dress, but they represent very trifling changes, and the men who attach importance to them are of no account.

These observations give the clew to the process of producing the fashions. There are three persons who have a common interest in constant change of dress: They are the manufacturer, the dressmaker and the wearer. The first two need no explanation: they want to sell the commodities they produce, and frequent changes of style insure a perpetually renewed demand. Without such changes people would go on wearing their old things much longer, and since there would be no inducement to buy new ones so long as the old served their purpose, economy would suggest the use of the most durable materials. The purveyors' business would shrink accordingly. The fashions, which compel customers to get new things, keep it going.

How, then, about the third party concerned, the wearer, whose interest is not to be always obliged to buy new things? It looks as if the fashions were devised for the benefit of the manufacturer and the dressmaker, who conspire against the wearer. The answer to that is that there are wearers and wearers, those who set the fashion, and those who follow it. The latter would really gain if there were no changes, but to the former novelty is essential, and their interest is identical with that of the manufacturer and the dressmaker; they are partners in the business. Who are they?

Women who for one reason or another desire to attract attention and be conspicuous. They include ladies occupying prominent positions in the social world, ladies occupying equally or more prominent positions on the stage, beauties in society, and the beauties out of it. All these require to be conspicuous, and an indispensable means to most of them is novelty in dress, which attracts attention and distinguishes them from the crowd. They are partners with the trade; they "set the fashion." Other women follow perforce, and here comes in a curious bit of psychology. The leaders of fashion lead in order to be conspicuous; their example is gradually followed until the fashion is established, when every woman has to adopt it for the opposite reason in order not to be conspicuous, and then the process begins all over again.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

This morning at 5 o'clock the venerable Dr. William Sihler died at the St. Paul's Lutheran parsonage on Barr street, at the advanced age of 85 years. Dr. Sihler had been a resident of this city nigh unto forty years, coming here in 1845 to assume the pastorate of St. Paul's church. The people grew up about him to venerate and love him.

Frank Voirol is at work on the town clock and will put it in excellent running order, he says.

Chief Hilbrecht is putting into use swinging harness in the fire engine house. It saves the leather and horses.

Marriage licenses issued: Fred Hockemeyer and Wilhelmina Grotrian, Herman H. Hilker and Minnie Gocksberger; Jesse O. Smith and Laura B. Wagner; Morris Weikert and Elizabeth Fitzgerald; John Troth and Lizzie Hock.

Abraham Wolf has been commissioned as watchman at the new federal building and George Jacoby has been empowered as master mechanic.

Capt. E. B. Smith has been commissioned as depot transfer agent in place of Tom Sullivan. Capt. Smith is as good a soldier as ever carried a musket.

There is no law empowering the mayor to close saloons on Sunday. There was an ordinance to that effect once, but the council repealed it.

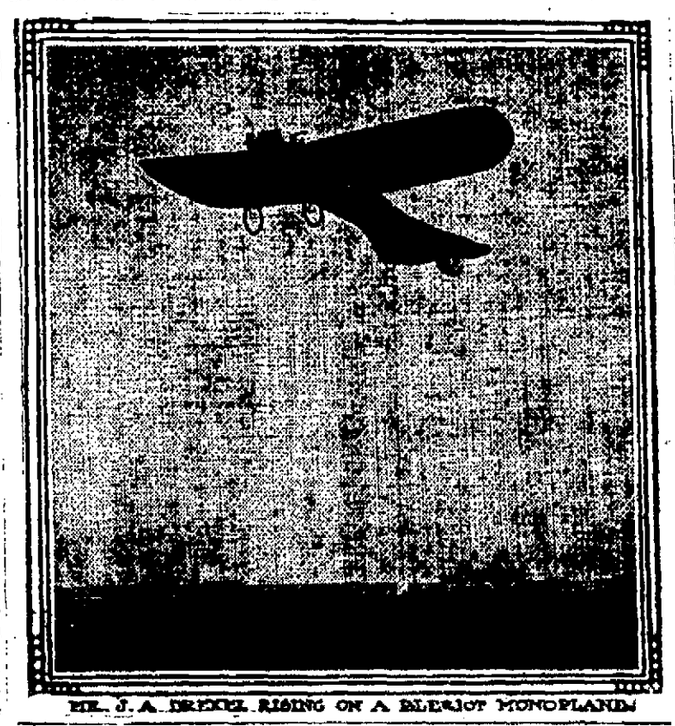
Messrs. W. W. Watson and William Wertle have been matched to shoot at Peoria blackbirds for $50 a side. The shoot occurs at White's range tomorrow afternoon.

John Gloeckel was this morning appointed a letter carrier in place of Conrad Kettler. Mr. Gloeckel is the well known barber.

Charley Bookwalter, the clever city editor of the Gazette, is quite ill, and Mr. Gart Shober is temporarily localizing in his place.

Capt. Hugh Diehl and Officer Frank Rohle drew diamond studs at the Empire tea salesroom and flash the sparks in the eyes of other envious coppers.

Contracts for the New Van Wert city hall, for which plans were drawn by Wing & Mahurin, were let yesterday. Messrs. W. and J. J. Geake, of this city, secured the contract for the stone work and Charles F. Muhler the galvanized iron and slate.



MR. J. A. DRIGGS RISING ON A BLERIOT MONOPLANE

BOYS' NEW AND EXCITING SPORT

Fighting Kites High in the Air More Fun Than Playing Baseball They Claim.

(Washington Star.)

Now that flying machines have so engrossed the world's attention the big boy longs for an aeroplane and looks down on the kite of his younger days. But the boys down in Warrenton, Va., have added a new wrinkle to the kite-flying of the old days so novel that it turns the peaceful pastime of holding a string to a combination of sticks and paper floating off in the blue sky, and doing never a thing but waking up to make an occasional dart into a sport that is as exciting as any game of contest—baseball always excepted—known to the American schoolboy.

It is fighting kites. The writer saw it, indeed, learned of it, for the first time while on a visit to that Virginia town. On the ground were a score of boys and in the air were a score of kites. They were of all sizes, both boys and kites. In actual measurement the kites varied in size from fifteen inches high by ten inches in width, the little torpedo boat size of the aerial fleet, to the great battleships of the air, more than four feet in height and nearly three feet wide.

The sight of these boys and their kites aloft brought up the writer with a short, sharp halt; for it was not like any kite-flying he had ever seen. When he saw the kites above he had expected to see below their owners lounging upon the ground or sitting placidly backed up against a locust tree, lazily watching their little airships floating in the sea of blue. But no such sight greeted his eyes; instead, he beheld above the score of kites, rising, falling, circling and darting to and fro like a flock of lunatic pigeons, while below their owners, kite-strings grasped firmly in hand, were imitating the antics of the kites above, running now forward, now backward, circling behind or before now one, now another of his companions, swiftly pulling in the cord until the kites sprang upward in the air like a rocket, or as swiftly paying it out until the kite dropped like a sinker. And all the while there arose from the excited group shrieks and yells that would make the ghost dancers of Brule Sioux turn their copper complexions into verdigris with envy.

Fell Like Stricken Deer.

Just as the writer turned his gaze back to those kites dancing so fantastically, he noted one that shot heavenward in frantic bounds, as its owner, pulling in the cord with both hands, ran swiftly backward. Another boy ran back by his side with equal speed, his own kite being a trifle higher than the other and nearer the runners. Suddenly the mounting kite halting in midsky like a stricken deer, turned feebly on its side and, wabbling like a drunken man, came staggering down the heavens, floating off across a neighboring field and alighting somewhere out of sight in the valley beyond.

"It's mine," shrilly yelled a boy, running back beside the owner of the dead kite, and, handing the string of his own kite to a bystander, he raced off down the hill in the direction where the kite had fallen. The owner of the fallen kite was standing, the picture of defeat, gazing ruefully at his cord, that came winding and wriggling like a long, lean snake, out of the sky.

Then he explained this odd method of playing at aerial war.

"You see this thing here on the end of the tail," he said, holding up what looked like a lead pencil with glass fins on it; "well, that's the cutter and it's that that does the business. This is the way we make 'em. We get a stright piece of twig about six inches long and a little bigger than a lead pencil. We tie pieces of cord tightly around the ends.

"Then we take a knife and split the twig from end to end, but the cords tied at the end keep it from splitting wide open. Then we turn the twig a quarter around and make another split from end to end. We then get a bottle that has a heavy glass bottom, like a beer or wine bottle, and break this up until we have left only the thickest part of the bottom. We then take this chunk of glass and, holding it lightly in our hands, strike it quickly against a hard rock. The glass chips off in little flakes from a third of an inch to an inch long, almost always in a crescent shape and with the inner edge as sharp as a razor. You can easily cut a piece of cord dangling loose by just pulling one of these glass chips across it; you can see then that it would cut more readily a cord that was held taut by the pulling of the kite. Now we take about eight of these little glass crescents and push them through the slits in the twig, four through one slit, about an inch apart, and four through the slit at right angles to the first, at the same distance apart. We have the sharp side up.

Difference in the Tail.

"We then get the smallest strong cord we can find and bind these pieces firmly in place, so that there must be a considerable pull on one to budge it. Then we fasten this to the end of the kite's tail. You'll notice that the tails of these fighting kites are different from the kind ordinarily used. We get a piece of old flannel garment or worn-out blanket and cut it up into strips about three-quarters of an inch wide. These we sew together, end to end, taking care that the seams shall be very smooth and without any kinks, that would prevent the tail moving smoothly along your enemy's kite cord. We are also careful in fastening the cutte rto the tail to see that it fits smoothly and is wrapped tightly with cord to prevent its slipping or being torn off. Then we are ready for fight.

"The thing is to get the cutter against the cord of your enemy, and by giving your kite a vigorous pull make it go upward; the pressure of the cord against whichever of the cutters it comes in contact with will cut it in almost an instant. There are lots of tricks in doing this, and we are learning the cutter to the tail to see tha it most natural was to get the tail of your kite just above your opponent's cord, then gently drop it until it was just below; then by moving to right or left bring the tail in contact with the cord, at the same time pulling in your kite so as to send it upward. As the kite soars it drags its tail along the cord until the cutter is reached—when it's all over but getting in the other fellow's kite. That trick that Jim worked on Billie just now of making the kite dart and fling its tail over the cord some distance away—and a dandy trick it is—was first worked last week. Oh, there are lots of them, and we are getting new ones all the time. Most of the boys in town would rather fight kites than play ball, and you know what that means."

GRANDSON OF GRAND OLD MAN.

Son of Viscount Herbert Gladstone Is Held in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Oct. 27.—Gilbert E. Gladstone, who says he is the son of Viscount Herbert Gladstone, of Chester, England, is being held here at the request of the police of the District of Columbia. It is charged there, according to a telegram, that he obtained cameras and has not paid for them.

The young man said he is a grandson of the former premier of England. William E. Gladstone.

Gladstone is 19 years old. He arrived here about a week ago with $70

SAW THE JOKE AT LAST.

He was a middle-aged man, and he stood, with umbrella tucked under his arm, in front of the old South church in Boston, chuckling away as if he had just thought of something particularly humorous.

"What are you cachinnating about my friend?" asked one of Boston's finest.

"Hey," demanded the man with the umbrella, blankly.

"I inquired the cause of your unseemly cachinnation," repeated the policeman.

"Oh, I forgot this was Boston. I reckon you mean laughing, don't you. Well, I'm cackling over a lot of funny pieces I read years ago in the comic papers about Boston's crooked streets. I had never been in Boston then, and I didn't know they were funny—the pieces, I mean. I struck Boston this morning for the first time, and as I meandered around in the rain trying to find my way somewhere, those old stories I read years ago came back to me, with the joke side uppermost, and every time I strike a place where the streets seem a little more tangled up and twisted around than usual I have to stop and ha-ha right out in spite of myself.

"Why, I declare, I actually can't tell half of the time which side of the street I'm on, just as it said in the newspaper yarns I used to read, and yet I never had any idea those stories were intended to be funny until I got here and began to cork-screw around the Hub on my own account. Oh, I'm slow, all right, but I can see the joke when I have a diagram of it right in front of me."

And as the policeman moved on the middle-aged stranger with the umbrella was still standing there, chuckling softly to himself.—New York Times.

NEW INFIELDER HAS SIGNED FOR THE SEASON

Nichols Will Be Here in the Spring to Get a Berth.

C. E. "Chuck" Nichols is the first member of the Fort Wayne team to sign his name to a contract and when the practice squad is ordered out somebody will probably have a hard time beating him out of an infield job.

He is a youngster who played with the West Virginia State league last season until the organization went up with the smoke and noise of July 4, or rather the day after, which is the day on which little league obsequies are so frequently pulled off.

Nichols joined Fort Wayne at Wheeling last season and was tried out in practice a couple of times. He is a little fellow, fast as a streak, and Manager Jimmy Burke was favorably impressed with him at the time, but had no place for him.

The youngster wanted to break into class B ball and rather than sign a contract for the remainer of the season and place himself subject to the reservation he decided to play independent and semi-pro. ball and report to Fort Wayne in the spring.

He went back to his home in Toledo and later helped out Mansfield in the Ohio State league, but his engagement there was short and after the schedule had been finished up he joined an all-star American Association club that made a barnstorming trip into Canada.

There was not much opportunity to get a line on the player in the little work he did for Fort Wayne, but he came well recommended and Owner Varnell is led to the belief that he will show form in the spring.

CHANNELL GOT HIS SHARE.

Although Lester Channell played only a few games with the New York Americans, he cut in for a full share of the post-season series' receipts and this much good winter money was in his stocking when he returned to his home at Crestline.

Channell, it will be recalled, broke his leg after a good start with the Yanks and was in the hospital several weeks. He did not recover sufficiently to finish the season, but he got his money just the same. Cy Seymour, sold during the season, and Pitchers Rudolph and Hendricks, who joined the club late in the season also got a share each.

WILL STAGE MATCHES.

At a meeting of the St. Joe Athletic club last night which was in the nature of a smoker and pedro party it was decided to put on some boxing bouts in a short time and a committee has gone to Chicago to look for talent. The first will be staged November 1. Charles Busching, Albert Brase and Albert Strodel arranged the affair last night.

BASS WINS THE MATCH.

In the games between the Bass team and the Bowser team at the Metropolitan alleys last night the Bass bowlers won two and Bowser one, putting the former second in the league standing. The scores last night were: Bass—707, 806 and 665, and Bowsers—702, 709 and 862. Toy, of the Bass team, led in the score. The standing of the teams is as follows: Electro-Technics, won 9; Bass, won 4, lost 5; Wayne Knitting Mills, won 3, lost 8; Bowsers, won 2, lost 7.

MACK QUIETLY MARRIED.

Leader of the Champions Will Take Long Wedding Trip.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27.—Cornelius McGillicuddy (Connie Mack), manager of the world's champion baseball team, was married this morning to Miss Katherine Hallohan in the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady of Holy Souls, by Rev. John Moore, the rector.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McGillicuddy went to his mother's home where the family was informed that the ceremony had taken place. The couple left later in the day for New York where they will remain until November 3, when they will sail for Genoa on the steamer Cincinnati. They will tour Italy, Switzerland, France, Ireland and England and probably will not return to this city until January or early in February.

The victorious Athletics are to be given a dinner by the officials of the Philadelphia American league club and a big demonstration in their honor is to be held Friday night of next week, followed by a great banquet on Saturday.

SOUTH BEND RAISES BIG KICK OVER TRANFERS

Don't Like the Idea of Losing Best Members of Ball Team.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 27.—An announcement that seven of the most valuable members of the local baseball squad will be transferred to Grand Rapids along with Manager Eddie Wheeler, is causing a big protest here, in view of the fact that the city demonstrated during the season just passed that it can and will support a good ball team.

If catcher Holmes is taken the team is left entirely without a backstop unless Watson is recalled and it is not believed that he has had sufficient experience to make a first catcher in the Central league. Bob Wells has been drafted and Holmes would be the logical candidate for chief backstop next season.

The removal of Koehler, Schmick and Wheeler from the infield leaves South Bend without a man to play the inner works and an entirely new lot would have to be secured. Lindsay and Smith are the only pitchers who possess any class and the cry has gone up here that if these men are taken along with Teddy Kroy, Annis had as well take along his franchise as it will be valueless.

However, it is not probable that Annis will make such a move. In the first place he wants to sell South Bend and if these men are taken he will have nothing to sell except his bat bags and uniforms. He does not own the park and has nothing left but the territory which will be of little value without players.

Annis is not much given to telling his private business and what he really has in contemplation will not be known until he is prepared to pull off a deal. In any event local patrons of the game who rallied to the support of Annis and Wheeler last season and who stand ready to repeat believe they are entitled to some consideration and they do not look for the wholesale transfer of players that has been published.

CADILLACS LAND ON LEADERS FOR A SERIES

El Venzos Below Form and Drop Two Games to the Autos.

SCHEDULE TONIGHT.

First League—Berghoffs and Hof Braus.
Second League—H. O.'s and Aurentz's Havanas.

With the high-speed clutch working way over the Cadillacs tore into the second league leaders in the Brunswick games last night and copped two out of three from the El Venzos. While the losers were not bowling up to form, two of the three games went over the 800 mark and if the smokes had been at their best they would have had a troublesome evening.

There was one double in the series and that went to Volmer who was the title bowler of the engagement. Koons rolled 183 in his second game and topped all of the losers. The score:

STUDENTS' STRIKE IS ENDED.

Young Men of Colorado University Return to Their Classes.

Boulder, Col., Oct. 27.—Over 100 students of the University of Colorado, who have been on a strike for the last two days, voted to return to classes at a mass meeting held last night. The strike resulted from the suspension of seventeen undergarduates for participating in the hazing of freshmen initiated into a college society last week. The candidates were compelled to do a marathon twice around one of the dormitories in a snow storm. Ancient Greek custom was closely adhered to in the matter of an entire absence of clothes. While the suspension of the seventeen students still stands, the student body secured several concessions from the faculty.

The pet cat belonging to the Kingsland firemen has been found and restored to its owners. The animal had been in the habit of going out to fires on the escapes and was lost at Stoke Newington a fortnight ago. Yesterday it was seen at Highbury, and being recognized by its collar studded with firemen's buttons, was taken to the nearest fire station and thence sent on to Kingsland. They have a similarly intelligent cat at the general postoffice, Paris. He gets into the mail cart and accompanies the bags to the station and takes frequent long journeys in the mail van. Recently, however, he was sealed up in a mail bag [illegible] as far as Marseilles.—London Globe.

Never Lost a Post Series Game

Christy Mathewson has never lost a game in a post-season series, and in two such contests has been on the mound in seven different games.

In the world's series of 1905 between the Giants and Athletics he pitched McGraw's men to a world's championship by winning three games from the men of Mack.

The next post-season series in which the Giants took part was the one this fall with the Highlanders. This time Mathewson pitched three full games that were won by the National league club and in their fourth victory over the Highlanders he relieved Drucke, who was being hit hard by Chase's men, and held them safe while the Giants won out.

Mack Liked Pitcher's Nerve

Walter Burnham, who was formerly the owner and manager of the Newark team of the Eastern league, recently told a story about Jack Coombs. Jack is a Maine product, and began twirling on rural teams when "Cy" Young was doing his best work for the Boston Americans. Like every other New England "phenom" of these days, the name of "Cy" was applied to him and it was as "Cy" Coombs that Connie Mack heard of him when he was pitching Colby college into baseball championships in Maine.

Mack watched the collegian's career and sent scouts to look him over. The result was that in 1905 Coombs started for Philadelphia to join the Athletics, leaving behind another championship for Colby.

He reached Philadelphia at noon. Getting into a uniform, he warmed up before the afternoon game. After the contest Mack was sitting in his office talking with Burnham, when Coombs entered.

"Are you planning to work me tomorrow?" he asked, without hesitation.

The manager paused and then replied in the negative.

"Well, I thought I would ask you, Mr. Mack, because I intend to go to the theater tonight. Of course, if you were going to use me tomorrow I shouldn't do anything that would put me out of condition."

When the manager had repeated his assertion Coombs went out and Mack, turning to Burnham, said:

"What do you think of the nerve of that recruit?"

Then, as if struck suddenly by the other side of the episode, he added:

"Say, Walter, I like that fellow's nerve. He's got the idea that makes for success in baseball or anything else and some day he will be one of the stars of my pitching staff. Mark my prediction."

Sporting News in Tablets

Albert Palzer, an Iowa boy, is the latest "white man's hope." He stands 6 feet 4 inches tall, and weighs 230 pounds. Palzer can't fight, but that doesn't matter.

The proposed Eastern Virginia league has already been named "The Joke Circuit." It is to be made up of Norfolk, Portsmouth, Newport News, Hampton, Suffolk and Phoebus. The census of 1909 gave Phoebus a population of 2,094; Suffolk, 3,827, and Hampton, 2,764.

Louis Robie, owner of the Knickerbocker Burlesque company, wired from Toledo to Pitcher Jack Coombs of the Athletics, a $500 per week offer for five weeks with his burlesque troupe. Coombs is expected to join the troupe this week.

Al Bridwell, the Giants' shortstop, who is a much better boxer than most of the men appearing at the New York clubs, is not going to become a prize fighter. He had agreed to meet Fighting Kennedy for ten rounds at the Olympic Athletic club, but after thinking the matter over he notified the club officials that he would not take the match.

Charles Rigler, one of the umpires in the world's series, has written to friends in Charlottsville, Va., that he intends to return to the University of Virginia to resume the study of law. Rigler also takes a hand in coaching the baseball team there.

George Moreland, Pittsburg statistician, was elected president of the O.-P. league on the fifth ballot Tuesday. Moreland says he believes the census returns will show that the O.-P. can be raised to Class B. league instead of a Class C. organization.

In 1904 Murphy secured an option on the Cubs for $105,000. Today the Chicago franchise is worth a million. He secured a written agreement from the man furnishing the money permitting him to purchase additional stock from his profits. He is now the happy owner of 53 per cent of the capital stock. Mr. Murphy now hits the hay in a $60,000 Chicago mansion.

"Uncle" Ben Shibe, 74, owner of the Athletics, manufactures all of the base balls in both big leagues. They come out of the same factory. The only difference is the National league balls are stitched with pink yarn and the American white.

Outfielder Mitchell of the Cincinnati Reds, has won a gold watch, offered by a Cincinnati jeweler for the most timely hits. In computing these figures account was taken only of runs actually driven over the plate by clean hits. No account was made of runs scored on outs, sacrifice flies or runners advanced, unless they scored. Mitchell wins, McLean coming next with 60 runs.

Manager Griffith of Cincinnati, thinks of buying an apple orchard in Idaho. The "Old Fox" has ideas of his own about harvesting apples. Instead of having men go round with bags and barrels to collect the luscious fruit, he will have a freight car backed up to a distance of 60 feet and pitch all the apples through the door.

DAYTON GETS A NEW PAIR FROM THE MUD HENS

Pitcher and Second Baseman Turned Over by the Toledo Club.

Dayton, O., Oct. 27.—Secretary Elmer Redelle, of the Dayton baseball club, has just been notified by Owner Bill Armour, of Toledo, that Pitcher Fromholz and Infielder Benson have been turned over to the Vets for next season.

Waivers were secured on the youngsters in order to give Dayton an answer on its proposition to take the men and it is believed at least one of the infield holes will be plugged up.

Benson played second for the Columbus, Ga., team last season but is as good at third. He will be given a trial at second as a big gap was left there by the drafting of Johnny Nee. As a matter of fact Dayton's whole infield was taken with the exception of Steve Ragan at third base. The local management still has a hope that Earl Sykes will balk on going south and that he may be returned to the local club in the spring.

Fromholz was with the Dayton club a few days after the close of the Ohio-Pennsylvania league season. He formerly pitched at East Liverpool and while he was here he warmed up two or three times for the benefit of Manager Punch Knoll. He apparently had a nice line of curves with plenty of speed and looked good at the time.

He is a six-footer, a right-hander and is booked to fill in the vacancy left by the drafting of Walter Justus. His record last season was sixteen games won and eighteen lost, but the management believes that this was due to poor support rather than poor pitching and is banking on Fromholz to fill out the staff.

Dolly Stark has seen Benson play and he has sent him to Dayton with his stamp of approval on him. He thinks him fast enough for the Central league and much faith is placed in his estimate of the youngster.

NOT EVEN THE GASOLINE.

Sherwood Nottingham Magee, of the Phillies, considers himself a most unfortunate player. Sherwood led the National league in batting and he cannot see how the automobile Santa Claus came to overlook him. "It's just like this," said Magee to a bunch of baseball writers in front of the Bellevue last night. "Cobb and Lajois led the American league and because they were so close each gets a machine. But yours truly, Sherwood Nottingham Magee, leads the National league in batting and there was never any scandal about his hits, but what does he get? Not even a pint of gasoline."

MORMONS GOING TO MEXICO.

Colony of Sixty Families Will Settle on Tract of Irrigated Land.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Plans for the immediate establishment of a new Mormon colony in Mexico have been communicated to this government by Consul Luther T. Ellsworth, of Ciudad Porfirio Diaz. The colony is to be located twenty-five miles west of there on irrigated land and sixty families to come from Utah and Nevada are to take up residence there, according to Consul Ellsworth's information, which he says was communicated to him from reliable sources. Plans are perfected for a public school, church, municipal building, a public amusement pavilion, stores and shops. The town is to be called Victoria.

EXPENSIVE ECONOMY.

The late Senator Platt, discussing one day in Washington an economy in which he had no faith, said:

"Such an economy reminds me of old Smith and his keg of beer.

"Smith and his wife used to drink a quart of beer every night before retiring. This indulgence cost them ten cents. But Smith came home one day in great excitement and said:

"'Here's a man with a barrel of beer. It will only cost us four cents a quart this way. A economy of six cents, Huldah.'

"That evening the Smiths sampled the new barrel and they found it good. After the pitcher was finished Mrs. Smith said slowly:

"'George, we've saved six cents on our beer tonight.'

"'We have so, George answered, 'and six cents saved is six cents earned.'

"'Well, George, said his wife, 'shall we have another quart and save twelve cents?'"

HAPPY AT 103.

William Head, who yesterday celebrated at Windsor workhouse his hundred and third birthday, when asked if he would like to go for his usual walk in the village of Old Windsor, replied: "No, thank you. As this is my birthday I prefer to spend it at home." He looks upon the workhouse as his home, and spent a happy day there. He rose at 7 o'clock and had his usual pipe before breakfast. Then the master brought him two presents of tobacco which had arrived for him. For dinner the old man had boiled beef, vegetables and bread. He spent the afternoon with his friends at the workhouse, and having had a good tea, went to bed at 7 o'clock.—London Daily Mail.

Under the headline "The Doomed Agia Sophia," the Ikdam, of Constantinople, says that the great mosque, with its mighty dome, is in peril and may collapse. "Earthquakes have shaken its walls and repairs have been made which now appear to have been imperfect. Hence the lamentable condition," adds the Ikdam. Its pessimistic statement is made on the authority of Marangani, an architect appointed by the Turkish government to "make exhaustive examinations and give a detailed report."

Local Man Put Ad Wolgast Down One Time in Career

William West, a farmer living on the old Antrup place north of Fort Wayne, put Ad Wolgast down and out one time and in addition came very near preventing him from becoming the lightweight champion. That he didn't is due to pure luck and good judgment.

Mr. West was engaged at the time in hauling lumber into Cadillac, Mich., and Wolgast was engaged in the joyous pastime of "hopping bobs." The now champion made a flying tackle of West's bob sled and got a hold that broke quickly and the youngster was thrown under the vehicle. West raised one of the bobs slightly so that the full weight did not rest on Wolgast as it passed over his body and thus prevented injuries that would have kept him out of the prize ring if he had survived them at all.

West took the lad to the home of his father, who was a cigarmaker, and in spite of the fact that the boy was injured the maternal end of the Wolgast sketch tore into her offspring and whaled him good. When she finished the task she told West that the larruping just administered was the fifth the boy had had the same day.

At that time the present champion was a puny youngster whose greatest difficulties in life were to keep his nose clean and refrain from "hopping bobs" and dereliction in both likes earned him several lickings.

The news regarding Wolgast's possible permanent retirement from the ring has created lots of gossip in coast boxing circles. The fans have been banking on the Milwaukee lad reviving interest in the sport during the next four months. They had it all doped out for the sturdy little boxer to engage in several bouts this winter. "One-Round" Hogan, Frankie Burns, Lew Powell and other lightweights also have been counting upon fighting for the lightweight championship crown during the coming months. Now everything is up in the air. With Wolgast out of the running, the farmer champion, Battling Nelson, will undoubtedly step forward and claim the right to the matches that were in sight for Adolph.

The Dane is a real live one when it comes to press work. He can talk all day about himself and write a book at night. Even though he has gone down to defeat, there is every reason to believe that he is one of the biggest drawing cards in the profession. He is a tough nut to crack, despite the many maulings he has received. To tackle the Battler is like butting your head against a stone wall.

The whalebone frame of Nelson, his iron jaw and his concrete cranium have been the stumbling block to many boxers. Wolgast hasn't been of much account since he slashed the Hegewisch battering ram into ribbons in that memorable 40-round contest at Point Richmond on Washington's birthday. While Wolgast won, he has done practically no ring work during the past seven months. In the two bouts in which he has participated he made a weak showing and came out of each contest with a broken arm.

Can it be possible that in blocking the Dane's blows and in walloping him into submission, the Milwaukee wildcat sustained injuries to his arms that have put him out of the running? Using the hard head of the Dane for a punching bag for over three hours isn't beneficial to the hands.

The strain of that long fight seems to have snapped the stamina of the new champion. Two second-raters who should have been soft picking for him gave him terrific battles. He had to step so fast that he put his arm on the "blink" in an effort to make a decent showing.

Trying to lambast the Battler is dangerous business. The late Joe Gans practically shot his bolt in the Goldfield fight; Eddie Hanlon lost much of his zip and ginger after tangling with the Dane in San Francisco; Jimmy Britt never was the same man after the gruelling Colma mixup, while Young Corbett had the rollers put under him as the result of the two beatings he received at the hands of Nelson.

LONDON'S NEW DISH.

"Jugged wallaby with red current jelly," or "wallaby pie," is a novel dish with which Londoners are soon likely to be familiar.

Already it is on the menu of more than one restaurant, and before long the housekeeper will be able to purchase from her poulteret a wallaby just as at present she buys a chicken, says the London Daily Mirror.

The price will be about 3c each, the whole animal averaging from six pounds to ten pounds, being sold at 5d or 6d per pound.

The wallaby is an Australian marsupial, a species of small kangaroo, and is nearly twice as large as an English hare.

The flesh, when cooked, is almost as white as that of a rabbit, and has a pleasantly soft, sweet flavor. To some extent the flavor is reminiscent of oxtail. The wallaby is a most economical food, being almost all meat and quite devoid of fat.

"For the first time on Tuesday last we had jugged wallaby and red current jelly on our bill of fare," said the proprietor of a restaurant in Leadenhall Market to the Daily Mirror yesterday.

"Customers found the dish palatable, and we have arranged for a further supply on one day this week, and again for next week."

A prominent wholesale importer of Leadenhall Market allowed the Daily Mirror to inspect a case of frozen wallabies at the premises of the Union Cold Storage company.

"There were between 3,000 and 4,000 wallabies in the shipment that has lately reached this country," he said. "Of course, they are still frozen and unskinned."

THE ANSWER.

"Ah, well," said Wilbur Wright, "there's a plausible answer, you know, to every charge."

Mr. Wright, at a dinner in Dayton, was discussing the defense put up by an infringer of his biplane patents.

"The most defenseless charge," he said, "has its defense. Take the case of Bloomsbury. Getting off the train, he found he had to drive four miles from the station to the town. This, naturally, angered him, and he reproached the ticket agent.

"'You are fools on this line,' he said 'What made you build your station so far away from the city?'

"'Because, drawled the agent, 'we thought it would be more convenient to have it down here near the railroad.'"

COLONY OF OCTOGENARIANS.

In this town of about 400 inhabitants, off the railroad in Boone county, Missouri, more than 2 per cent. of the people are more than eighty years old. The majority of these octogenarians are women. One never has been married, while some of the others have been wed severeal times. The oldest member of the colony is eighty-seven years old, and the youngest is eighty.

In some cases the last names of the older persons almost have been forgotten, says the St. Louis Times. Every one in Ashland is Uncle Joe, Uncle Hugh, Aunt Mary or some similar name. Thomas Christian is the only one of the "oldest inhabitants" of Ashland who lives outside the town limits. He is eighty years old. Uncle Billy Roberts, who was the senior member of the colony, died a few weeks ago at the age of ninety.

Danderine

Grows Hair and we can PROVE IT!

DANDERINE is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. It exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

A lady from St. Paul writes in substance, as follows:

"When I began using Danderine my hair would not come to my shoulders and now it is away below my hips."

Another from Newark, N. J.

"I have been using Danderine regularly. When I first started to use it I had very little hair, now I have the most beautiful long and thick hair anyone would want to have."

NOW at all druggists in three sizes 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle

Danderine enjoys a greater sale than any other one preparation regardless of kind or brand, and it has a much greater sale than all of the other hair preparations in the world combined.

Nelson, Clapp, Murdock, Norris and others, and declared that in the entire group there is not a better or an abler man than the senior senator from Indiana—Beveridge.

How Grabbing is Done.

The speaker cited from his own observation many illustrations to show how the special interests obtain wrongful control of forests and grazing and mineral lands, water power sites and other natural resources of the country, continuing, he said:

"If you could escape it the special interests would have no particular object in grabbing. The reason they grab is because that is their method of taking you pay. Now how is the grabbing done? On the California coast north of San Francisco, lies the richest belt of timber land anywhere in the globe. Once it belonged to the people of the United States. Under the timber and stone act, a man could enter 160 acres of it at $2.50 an acre. He had to swear that he did so solely for his own benefit, and not for the benefit of any one else. The land was worth from ten to probably fifty times the government price. Much of it was acquired by making the crews of schooners which came in to load with lumber enter quarter sections of his land, sign the necessary papers, accept a few dollars for their rights, and sail away, leaving the lumber companies in possession.

"There never was a more barefaced or a more palpable fraud. In other cases trainloads of school teachers and other men and women from the east were taken to Idaho, California and other western states, there to locate the most valuable land still in the hands of the people, and return at once, leaving great areas to be acquired by men who had no right to them under a law so easy to evade that prosecution was practically impossible in most cases. Under these and other similar methods, as well as by honest exchange timber holdings have grown up so large that single properties of half a million acres are not uncommon."

Some Rank Swindles.

The speaker told of operations under the irrigation act in which a single furrow miles in length, over hills and valleys, had been plowed and called a ditch, into which two barrels of water had been poured to entitle the schemers to the land the moment they produced two witnesses to swear that they had "seen water running in the ditch." Alleged swamp lands were grabbed by rascals who loaded a boat upon a wagon, climbed into the boat and drove about the property, later experiencing no qualms of conscience in swearing that they "had been over the land in a boat."

"When the timber passes into the hands of men who own it by hundreds of thousands of acres in one place, or when it is destroyed by fire, whether that timber is in Washington or Idaho or in New York or Georgia, or Indiana, the cost of living feels the change.

"Sash, doors and blinds are made in Jersey City from timber grown in the state of Washington, and thousands upon thousands of eastern buildings are roofed with cedar shingles grown on the Pacific coast.

"When you exhaust the wheat fields of California by reckless methods of agriculture every loaf of bread throughout this nation helps to pay the bill. When the great power concerns which have grabbed what the people ought never to have let go of raise the price of power in the south to pay dividends on watered stock, every bolt of cotton cloth helps to pay that price.

"Wherever the special interests have consolidated their grip on the natural resources there is a bill to pay, and in every case that bill is paid by the plain people.

"If ever there was a practical question this is it. You can no more escape paying the price of the grabbing of natural resources by the special interests than you can escape the need of food and clothes and shelter.

"The special interests must go out of politics, and that soon," declared Mr. Pinchot. "In this great contest for the whole people the fighters at Washington are few. Could anything be more foolish in this crisis than to take from the firing line one great soldier? I came to Indiana to say two things to the people of this state. The first is that in this great fight for the people's rights Senator Beveridge is tremendously needed. I know that fact by the realization of how much I need him myself. I know that by the fights I have seen him make. I know him to be honest, able and a most valuable man in this fight.

"The second thing I want to say to the people of Indiana is I know Senator Beveridge to be in every way worthy to represent this great state. The progressives all over this country now have their eyes turned upon Indiana. They want to know whether the people of your state will stand behind a man who fights for them as Beveridge is doing or whether they will desert him in the middle of the fight. They want to know whether a man who does his best for the people can count on having the people do their best for him. That you will stand by Beveridge as he has stood by you I have no doubt. I want to see you do it with such a sweep and swing that every man who believes in the progressive policies throughout this country will have his enthusiasm kindled and his hope enlarged by the bearing of Indiana, by the decision of her citizens in this great fight."

DOESN'T KNOW; DOESN'T CARE.

Kansas Rockefeller Answers Attack on John D. Kinship.

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 27.—Frank Rockefeller, democratic candidate for congress from the Sixth district, has been attacked because of his relationship to John D. Rockefeller. Mr. Rockefeller, the Kansan, is a first cousin of the oil magnate. They are friendly, but not on intimate terms.

"Some of the republican papers in my district," said Mr. Rockefeller, "fear that my relationship to John D. may warp my views as a congressman. I do not think John D. knows I am running and I am sure he doesn't care. When he wants to do anything he has generally got what he wanted without electing any of his family to office to help him.

"I might add that John D. generally has worked with the republicans anyway. His life training and his business have given him a different view of things from what a fellow like me gets after farming and raising stock in western Kansas for thirty-three years. If he raised as many red hogs, white faced cattle and as much corn and alfalfa as I do he would be a whole lot nearer the people."

"IT BEATS ALL."

This is quoted from a letter of M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo.: "I recently used Foley's Honey and Tar for the first time. To say I am pleased does not half express my feelings. It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and was threatened with pneumonia. The first doses gave great relief and one bottle completely cured me." Contains no opiates. DR. Hardman, Specialist

I Cure Pelvic, Nervous and Chronic Diseases

REDUCED FEES

FREE EXAMINATION and SPECIALLY REDUCED FEES in all cases I accept for treatment between now and Nov. 12. Life is short and it is the part of wisdom to make the best of it. Make the start NOW before it is too late.

Have you ever stopped to consider how much you have lost in time and money because of disease? You may not have lost a single day, but if you are unfortunately a sufferer from some chronic disease you are unable to make the most out of your work and therefore must necessarily be unable to do the work of a strong healthy man. Just as an illustration, I met one of my former patients a few days ago and he remarked that he had gained thirty-seven pounds in weight and was making ten dollars per month more than he had ever done in his life before; simply because he was well, for good and was therefore able to do more and better work. This is the story of hundreds whom I have treated. The increased amount they are able to earn soon pays for the treatment and in addition they are able to live and enjoy life as only a healthy person can. I can cite you to many similar instances and have hundreds of letters on file from grateful patients whom I have cured; who had vainly sought relief elsewhere, and are now satisfied and thankful.

Consider a moment and determine if you can afford to postpone getting well when health will bring you an increased income that will soon pay for your cure, making it really cost you nothing; and besides permit you to enjoy the blessings of health.

You may ask why I have been able to succeed in curing these diseases when so many others have failed. The reason is simply this:—instead of attempting the impossible feat of trying to successfully treat several hundred different diseases, I have for over fourteen years made a special study of only a few and thereby have been able to develop new and original methods; for THEY CURE where the others fail—restoring the diseased body to a normal and healthy condition.

Others Treat, I Cure

Life is sacred, and given to us by an all-wise Creator for a purpose. You would not think of committing suicide, yet you are probably hastening an untimely end if you do not properly look after your health. The time to do it is NOW. Do not put it off until death stares you in the face, or until the disease has progressed so far as to make your cure impossible. Do not be foolishly misled into the belief that you have not the time to attend to your health. As important a thing as health cannot be neglected without disastrous results. A SOUND MIND IN A SOUND BODY IS A SHORT BUT FULL EXPRESSION OF A HAPPY STATE IN THIS WORLD.

I have been in Fort Wayne over two years and have built up the largest practice in my specialty in the state of Indiana. (I have the proofs.) This has been accomplished by doing the best work. Giving my patients the very best the world affords. In fact treating them exactly as I would like to be treated were I in their place. I use only clean advertising and clean business methods which naturally bring to me intelligent and self-respecting people, those who appreciate honest scientific methods. I have among my patients many of the best citizens of Fort Wayne and vicinity.

Call and investigate. It will cost you nothing. If I accept your case you can be certain of a cure.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN and nearly all nervous diseases are the direct result of chronic or imperfectly treated Pelvic Diseases, such as Varicocele, Piles, Fistula, Stricture, etc. I do not only remove the cause, but my many years of experience in the treatment of nervous and pelvic diseases enable me by my special methods to revitalize the entire nervous system and to restore to perfect health nearly all sufferers from nervous breakdowns and vital weakness.

BLOOD POISON—I use only the most advanced methods in the treatment of blood poison and kindred diseases.

PROSTATIC ENLARGEMENT—This may result from a number of causes. The constant jarring and vibration of trains and trolley cars are a very potent cause. Bicycle riding and the use of riding implements on the farm are factors in producing this disease. In fact, the causes are so many and varied that fully 75 per cent. of all male adults are afflicted to a greater or lesser extent by this disease. The disease is so little understood, and as one of the principal symptoms is a pain in the back, it is usually called kidney trouble and treated with local applications or sedatives which can do no possible good whatever. I reduce the enlargement and have been able to cure about 90 per cent of all cases.

VARICOCELE—I cure Varicocele in a few days' or weeks' time without the use of the knife.

STRICTURE—I readily remove Stricture by my dissolvent method without the use of instruments.

RUPTURE, PILES, FISTULA, ETC., cured without detention from business and without the use of the knife.

If you live out of town write or write on what train you will arrive and I will arrange my engagements so that I can see you at once.

READ THESE—(A couple letters among the hundreds which I have on file) then ask the others if they can show you anything as convincing.

Dr. W. E. Hardman, Fort Wayne, Ind.:

Dear Sir:—Several months ago I came to you seeking treatment for a very severe case of prostatic enlargement and stricture and am glad to inform you that, although it has been some time since you pronounced me a well man, I have had no recurrence of the trouble. Having been afflicted for many months without getting relief, I feel that it is not only my duty, but justice to you all and others who may be suffering from the same trouble, that I write these few words of gratitude. I might add that I am perfectly satisfied with the treatment and honorable business methods that you gave me and will not hesitate to recommend you to others who are afflicted as I was. I feel that the expense is nothing when taken into consideration the value received.

Yours very truly,

(————)

Name given on request to any one who is interested and you will be privileged to call and interview the party yourself if you desire.

To Whom This May Concern:

This certifies that I have been treated by Dr. W. E. Hardman for PROSTATIC INFLAMMATION, STRICTURE and FISTULA; that he has cured me perfectly and I am thoroughly satisfied.

I have been examined and treated by a number of prominent physicians and specialists who did me no good whatever, and gave up my case as incurable, stating that my only hope lay in an operation and that would not promise a cure.

I have been told that my condition was one of the worst ever encountered and practically incurable.

I cannot recommend Dr. Hardman too highly.

"BEARDED LADY" WEDS FARMER

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 27.—The "bearded lady" of Barnum & Bailey's circus was married in South Bend yesterday. The widely known performer in private life is Miss Grace Gilbert, of Kalkaska county, Mich., but by her marriage she became Mrs. Giles E. Calvin. The groom is a farmer of Kalkaska county, 53 years old and a widower. Miss Gilbert, who has an 18-inch beard, is 19 years younger.

MARK TWAIN LEAVES $611,136.

Connecticut Home Worth $70,000 and Stock Holdings $450,000.

Redding, Conn., Oct. 27.—The inventory of the estate of Mark Twain, filed in probate court yesterday, shows the valuation as made by the appraisers, Alfred Bigelow Paine, Mr. Clemens' literary secretary, and Harry Lounsbury, superintendent of the estate, to be $611,136.

Mr. Clemens' home, Stormfield, and the 230 acres surrounding it are valued at $70,000. The approximate value of his stock holdings is given at $450,000, of which $200,000 is in the Mark Twain company.

Mrs. Ossip Gabrilowitsch, Mr. Clemens' daughter, sailed for Europe Saturday, leaving instructions that Stormfield and the real estate be sold.

GRANDPA MADE A MISTAKE.

Selects Husband for Grandchild She Couldn't Live With.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 27.—Parents sometimes make a mistake in the selection of a husband for their daughter, but it was grandfather who made the mistake this time. Bertha Noble, 18 years old, lived with her grandfather on a farm near Blue Springs, Mo. He took a fancy to Albert Noland, a farm hand, who was very modest and extremely bashful in the presence of women.

"I would like for you to marry Albert Noland," the grandfather said to Bertha one day a year ago.

But Albert hadn't said a thing to Bertha about it. She told Judge Thomas on the witness stand in the circuit coure she really was taken by surprise. After she had told her grandfather she had no objection. Albert came in from the field one day with enough courage to ask her to marry him. She did.

She lived with him a few months, then left him because he abused her, she said. After much persuasion on his part she tried to live with him again and he treated her worse than ever, she asserted. Then she brought suit for divorce. It was granted by Judge Thomas.

Life's Blessings

For the mother in the home to be strong and well, able to devote her time and strength to the rearing of children, is one of life's greatest blessings. Often the bearing of children injures the mother's health, if she has not prepared her system in advance for the important event.

Women who use Mother's Friend are saved much of the discomfort and suffering so common with expectant mothers. It is a penetrating oil that thoroughly lubricates every muscle, nerve and tendon involved at such times, and thus promotes physical comfort. It aids nature by expanding the skin and tissues and perfectly prepares the system for the coming of baby. Mother's Friend assures a quick and natural recovery for every woman who uses it. It is for sale at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers.

THE SHOP AND RAIL NEWS

RATE RULING IS MADE PERMANENT

Passenger Association Says "No Rates Below Two Cents a Mile."

FRED PELZER IS TO BE PROMOTED

Advanced from Section Foreman to Supervisor at Plymouth.

At the meeting in Chicago yesterday of the Central Passenger association the rule abolishing special rates, excepting homeseekers' and tourist rates, passed at the meeting two weeks ago, to be effective until February 28, was made permanent. This means that outside of tourist and homeseeker rates, two cents per mile will be the rule everywhere in central passenger territory. The first big event to be affected will be the Chicago fat stock show in November and voters who reside in the central territory will also have to put up full fare to go home to vote. This action on the part of the passenger association yesterday will be regretted by many who contemplate journeys.

WANT MORE WAGES.

Concerning a matter of wages in the mechanical department of the Wabash, the Peru Chronicle yesterday said: "Wabash railroad machinists are making arrangements to meet Superintendent E. F. Needham, of the locomotive and machinery department, and General Superintendent S. E. Cotter, for the purpose of presenting their revised schedule of wages and working conditions, which is proposed to become effective the first of December. A committee of the machinists is at present at Toledo formulating the new schedule. The machinists at present are receiving 34 cents an hour and they will ask the management for a raise to 40 cents. About two thousand men on the Wabash system will be affected. Owing to the lateness of the season the time is rather short for the committee and the management to come to an agreement.

WERE DISCUSSING WAGES.

The wage committee of the five crafts employed at the Wabash shops in this city, will return home tomorrow, after being in Peru and Toledo several days to meet committeemen from other shops on the Wabash system. What action the committee will recommend is not known outside of their own ranks. In the committee from this city are James Lechler, of the machinists; Frank Schwantz, George Jautz and Thomas Tressler, of the pipefitters; C. W. Koenig, of the blacksmiths; E. Seibold, of the boilermakers, and W. E. Shearer, of the carpenters.

CAN TALK TO CHICAGO.

Pennsylvania Telephone System Extended.

This morning communication by telephone over the Pennsylvania 'phone system was established between Fort Wayne and the Fifty-fifth street round house in Chicago and it is now regularly opened to business. Some months ago the line was finished between this city and Pittsburg and is now in service for certain kinds of messages. The opening of the line to Chicago greatly facilitates communication in the mechanical and motive power departments, which was chiefly accomplished by mail before the telephone was put in.

OUT ON TRIAL TRIP.

Ten Pennsylvania Men Making First Trip as Firemen.

The Pennsylvania has just added several names to its list of freight firemen and the following are now making their first trips in that capacity: J. L. Stark, L. H. Donte, F. B. Logsenhiser, J. H. Webster, A. Albro, C. W. Grodrian, J. J. Wilkinson, W. H. LaBar, S. J. Agnew and J. J. Sloan.

TO CALIFORNIA TO LIVE.

Yesterday Machinist A. W. Arter resigned his position at the Bass shops and he will leave in a few days for California, where a job awaits him providing he wants it. Mr. Arter has been employed about two years at the Bass shops. He learned his trade in the Pennsylvania shops. He was a member of the Bass shop league ball team and is a member of the shops' bowling team.

TO ENTERTAIN FIREMEN.

The Ladies' society of the B. L. F. & E. will have a supper and entertainment at the hall on Calhoun street this evening. Invitations have been issued to the firemen, who will turn out and enjoy the hospitality of the ladies, who always have a good entertainment.

FRED PELZER PROMOTED.

Advanced From Section Foreman to Supervisor.

Fred Pelzer, for several years section foreman at the east yards of the Pennsylvania, has received a nice promotion. Next week he will go to Plymouth in the capacity of supervisor. His old position has not yet been filled, but the appointment is expected in a day or two.

AT DUNKIRK FOR AWHILE.

Mrs. Stoll and the Misses Helen and Marie Stoll, wife and daughters respectively of George Stoll, left today for Dunkark, N. Y., where they expect to remain three or four months. Mr. Stoll is there inspecting boiler construction work for the Pennsylvania company and will be detained there four months and possibly longer. His family goes to join him.

TINNER VERY SICK.

F. Rothenberger, a tinner at the Pennsylvania shops, is very ill with rheumatism and is at present confined to his bed. He was taken with the malady last Sunday and has been confined since.

SENT BOILER TO BUTLER.

The Bass Foundry and Machine company this morning shipped a 120 horse power tubular boiler to Butler, Ind. It will be installed in the power plant of the Butler company.

BOILER FOREMEN MEETING.

Robert Fogus and W. J. Mercer, of Allegheny; W. E. Schultz, of Wellsville, and B. F. Sarver and E. L. Litot, of Fort Wayne are holding a conference in the committee room at the Pennsylvania shops today over matters connected with the boiler department. Mr. Sarver is presiding at the meeting. All of the visitors are foremen at the respective shops.

CLOSED PASSENGER CONVENTION.

The annual meeting of the passenger agents of the Nickel Plate, which was held this year in Kansas City, closed last night and General Passenger Agent R. F. Horner and the eastern passenger men of the line will pass through the city tonight en route home. A card from Traveling Passenger Agent F. P. Parnin states that he left this morning for St. Paul, where he will be joined by Mrs. Parnin. They will leave tomorrow for the Pacific coast country, where they expect to remain three weeks. Mrs. Parnin went to St. Paul yesterday.

TO INSTALL BIG BOILER.

Preparations are being made for the installation of the big vertical water tube boiler at the Bass foundry power plant. Because of the height of the boiler, the roof of the boiler house on Hanna street has to be elevated about 13 feet and carpenters are now engaged in that work. This boiler is an addition to the plant and those now in use there will be retained.

M. O. GRUBB BETTER.

M. O. Grubb, the Nickel Plate engineer who has been very ill with typhoid fever at his home in Bellevue, is reported as resting easy today and showing a decided improvement. His condition Monday was such as to cause alarm and his brothers were summoned from this city. Mr. Grubb runs in and out of Fort Wayne and has many friends here.

NICKEL PLATE BUSY.

Freight and passenger business on the Nickel Plate is much heavier this month than it was at this season of last year. Freight traffic is particularly heavy and to handle it the train force is being increased from time to time. Three new crews were put in service yesterday.

SHOULDER DISLOCATED.

J. Adamske, 1629 Fletcher street, a car builder at the Pennsylvania shops, suffered a dislocation of the tendon of the biceps of the left shoulder this morning from a fall in a car. He was attended by the company surgeons.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

The change from summer to winter uniforms will be made by Nickel Plate trainmen November 1.

C. J. Crapps, A. Merkler and W. C. Cramer, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick and off duty.

Nicholas Krantz and W. E. Kahle, machinists' helpers, took employment at the Wabash shops this morning.

Supt. S. K. Blair, of the Nickel Plate, left for Cleveland on business for the company this afternoon.

Fred Stahl is acting general foreman at the Pennsylvania erecting shop during the absence of John T. Leach, who is sick.

Engineer Emil Jamey of the Pennsylvania has been off duty several days on account of the sickness and death of his brother.

Machinist E. E. Steil, who had his eyes injured a day or two ago, resumed work at the Pennsylvania shops this morning.

The shops at Altoona, Pa., have received instructions to build 500 steel frame box cars. The passenger car order for the fall has not been placed, but is expected soon.

Machinist W. G. McCarthy, of the Wabash shops, will go to Logansport Saturday to spend a few days with relatives. He resided in that city a number of years.

George Wood, foreman of the arc lamp testing room at the Fort Wayne Electric works, went to Kalamazoo this afternoon on business for the company.

Frank R. Fitzpatrick, of Allegheny, and Walter A. Jones, of Conway, Pennsylvania round house foremen, are in the city today on business with the officials.

P. F. Merritt has returned from the east, where he spent a week in inventory work for the Pennsylvania company. He was chiefly on the Erie and Ashtabula branch.

W. K. Wilder and Harry Westerman, Pennsylvania passenger engineers, have returned from Indianapolis, where they went two or three days ago on business for the company.

Charles H. Hoffman, a carpenter who was engaged at the house building trade during the summer, took employment as a passenger car builder with the east car shops this morning.

Arthur Orr has recovered from an attack of typhoid fever and yesterday left for the east to resume his work in the engineering department of the Pennsylvania. He was off duty about three months.

Round House Foreman Charles Z. Bond, of the Wabash, accompanied by his wife and mother, is visiting relatives and friends in Kansas. Jack Moran has charge of the round house during the absence of Mr. Bond.

The railroads which touch the coal fields of Southern Indiana are wrestling with car shortage, which is growing worse daily. The Evansville and Terre Haute road is most affected by the shortage, being able to supply cars to only a portion of the shippers.

Because the court believed the railway company had violated the laws concerning the issuance of passes, the plaintiff in a damage suit who was hurt while riding on a pass was given a judgement of $25,000 against the Northern Pacific company in Montana. The company has cancelled all outstanding passes.

Floyd Richason, for some time assistant to Ed McDonald, road foreman of engines of the Logansport division of the Panhandle, has resigned and resumed his place at the throttle of a passenger engine. There is a fascination about the work of an engineer that those who have tried it cannot resist, and all get back to it after quitting awhile when opportunity is given.

SANTE FE ELECTION.

Topeka, Kas., Oct. 27.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway in Topeka today, four directors of this road were re-elected for a term of four years each. They were Edward P. Ripley, Chicago; Byron L. Smith, Chicago; Charles Steel, New York, and Howell Jones, Topeka. It developed that the Santa Fe has 28,000 stockholders, an increase of 3,000 since the annual meeting last year.

Maurice Maeterlinck, philosopher, aesthete, dramatist, mystic, was born in 1862. His home was in the ancient city of Ghent, "the soul of the Flanders," but he has lived from time to time in Brussels and recently in France, where he has a winter and summer residence. An attorney by profession, he has been more concerned with the subtle laws of nature than with the legal codes of men.

FRECKLES

September the Month to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

Now that the summer is over, the woman with tender skin finds her face covered with ugly freckles and she fears that she has ruined her complexion.

Fortunately for her piece of mind, the recent discovery of a new drug, othine—double strength, makes it possible for even those most susceptible to freckles to keep the skin clear and white. No matter how stubborn a case of freckles you have, the double strength othine will remove them. Get an ounce package from Meyer Brothers Co., and banish the freckles.

The sales of the Canadian Pacific railway lands in the prairie provinces in 1909 and 1910, fiscal years, were 576,648 and 700,000 acres, valued at $5,085,517 and $6,650,000, respectively. The average price an acre was about $13.56 in 1909, and about $10 in 1910. When the railroad was constructed it received a grant of 25,000,000 acres of land from Dominion government, of which twelve million acres have been sold.

A good example of the kind of story Mark Twain used to like to weave into his after-dinner speeches was the tale of the drinker who unwillingly put in an application for membership in a temperance society, sailed the next day on a three years' voyage, on which he kept the pledge in spite of longing and temptation, and returned to resign only to find that his name had been blackballed originally.—Buffalo Commercial.

through, but did not suffer any very severe hardship."

Interested in Wellman.

The Associated Press correspondent was the first to inform Mr. Post that the America II probably was the undisputed winner of the Gordon Bennett cup. The voyagers did not see any of the other balloons in the drift eastward across northern Quebec, as they passed farther north than either the Dusseldorf or Germania. Mr. Post did not appear to be greatly excited over his experiences and showed much more interest in the fate of Walter Wellman, inquiring eagerly as to how he had got on in his attempt to cross the Atlantic. He was disappointed, but not surprised that the attempt had proved a failure.

Lot of Fun on Trip.

Despite the hardships encountered after their landing high up on a wooded mountain side Oct. 19, after an air trip of 1,550 miles from St. Louis in about forty-six hours, the sky sailors expressed themselves enthusiastically regarding the real pleasures of the trip. They admitted, however, that one of the pleasantest incidents was their meeting of the two trappers after four days of wandering through woods and water-veined areas which permitted only snail-like progress.

"It is unlikely the balloon will be recovered," said Mr. Hawley, just before boarding the train for Quebec. "However it is lost in a good cause. We have without doubt beaten the world's record by more than 200 miles.

"We really suffered greatly from the cold as we tramped slowly away from the America II. We were seriously hampered by the goods we had to park, for it was absolutely necessary to take along our heaviest clothing besides the remaining food. Frequently we waded through streams of ice cold water. So cold was the weather that at times our clothing was frozen to our bodies. When we came across the trappers the fourth day we could have cried for joy. We were about 'all in.'"

RUBBER BAGS BEST.

St. Louis, Oct. 27.—Elated by Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post winning the international balloon race, the Aero club of St. Louis governors decided today to bid again for the next race.

Lewis Spindler, now in Canada, was advised to organize if possible an expedition to rescue the balloon America II.

Rubber gas bags were victorious over the cambric in the race. The America II., Dusseldorf II. and Germania, the leading prize winners, were made of rubber. The three balloons which came down the day following the start had bags of cambric.

GRADE THE WINNERS.

St. Louis, Oct. 27.—Following the announcement that Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post had landed safely in the balloon America II, north of Lake St. John, Quebec, the two St. Louis members of the international race committee, A. B. Lambert and L. D. Dozier gave out the official distances made by the balloons:

America II. (America) Alan R. Hawley, pilot; Augustus Post, aid; landed at Lake Tshishtigama, near Peribonka, Quebec; distance, 1,353 miles.

Dusseldorf II. (German), Hans Gericke, pilot; S. F. Perkins, aid; landed at Kiskisink, Quebec, 1,250 miles.

Germania, (Germany), Hugo Von Abercron, pilot; August Blankertz, aid; landed at Concoocache, Quebec; distance, 1,190 miles.

Helvetia, (Switzerland), Theodore Schraeck, pilot; A. Armbruster aid; landed at Ville Marie, Quebec; distance, 850 miles.

Harburg III. (Germany), Lieut. Vogt, pilot; W. F. Assman aid; landed in Lake Nipissing Ont.; distance, 735 miles.

Azurea, (Switzerland), Emil Messner, pilot; Leon Giraudan, aid; landed near Biscotasing Ont.; distance, 772 miles.

Isle De France, (French), Alfred Le Blanc, pilot; Walther De Mumm, aid; landed at Pezamasing, Ont.; distance, 725 miles.

St. Louis IV. (America), H. E. Honeywell, pilot; J. W. Tolland, aid; landed at Hillman, Mich.; distance, 550 miles.

Condor, (France), Jacques Faure, pilot; E. G. Schmolck, aid; landed at Two Rivers, Wis.; distance, 410 miles.

Million Club, (America), S. Louis Von Phul, pilot; J. M. O'Reilly, aid; landed near Racine, Wis.; distance, 315 miles.

Send Man to Greet Cup Winners.

After dispatching Lewis Spindler, Aero Club of St. Louis representative at Toronto to Quebec to greet Hawley and Post on their way to New York, President Lambert, of the local club wired the crew of the America II that they were undoubtedly the winners of the fifth James Gordon Bennett balloon race. The distance, 1,855 miles is subject only to confirmation by the war department.

The prize money, amounting to $3,750 cash is deposited here in the name of the Aero Club of St. Louis and will be awarded as follows upon receipt of the war department measurements if the relative positions are not changed:

America II, $1,000; Dusseldorf II, $1,000; Germania, $1,000; Helvetia, $500; Harburg III, $250.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 27.—With the Liverpool market not following to the full extent advanced quotations on this side of the Atlantic, wheat developed weakness here today. The bears pressed the point aggressively, and had as an advantage the fact that the short interest had been heavily decreased. Favorable crop reports from Argentine and Australia were also against the bulls. The opening was ½@¾c lower to ¼c up. December started at 93¾c to 93⅝c, unchanged to ⅛c off, and declined to 92⅞c to 93c.

High winds, highly useful for the curing of new corn, were reported as prevailing widely, and had a depressing effect on prices. December opened ¼c to ⅝c down at 46½c to 46⅜c and fell to 46c.

Demand for oats was slack. There were few shorts in sight. December started ⅛@⅜c off at 31⅜c to 31⅝c and reacted to 31¾c.

Provisions were generally firm because of higher prices for hogs. First sales ranged from 7½c advance to 10c decline with January at $17.00 to $17.03 for pork. $10.20 to $10.25 for lard and $9.07½ for ribs.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, Oct. 27.—The stock market today opened strong with sharp advances in several of the speculative favorites. The volume of the demand, however, was moderate. American Smelting rose 1⅝, Toledo, St. Louis & Western 1 and Southern Pacific, St. Paul, Northern Pacific, Rock Island, Chesapeake & Ohio and Pressed Steel Car large fractions.

American Smelting was the feature of the dealings and was bought on a rapidly rising scale until it had reached 81½, a gain of 2⅝. Other leading stocks advanced a point, including Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper, National Biscuit also improved 2⅛ and Bethlehem Steel preferred 2¼. Federal Mining preferred gave way 3 points. Fractional reactions occurred later and the market became quiet.

Prices were pushed up another notch, the rise in consolidated Gas reaching 3⅜, Union Pacific 2¼, Reading 2, United States Steel 1⅜, Southern Pacific 1¼ and Great Northern preferred, Amalgamated Copper and General Electric 1½. Trading was very quiet at the advance.

Profit taking caused a reaction of 1½ in Consolidated Gas following the announcement of an increase in its dividend rate to 6 per cent. Other stocks gave way only a trifle and the whole list hardened afterward. United States Steel went to the high price of the movement.

The market closed irregular. The demand for United States Steel was insufficient to carry it through the enormous offerings about 80, as the whole list fell back on realizing sales. The reaction ran to about a point in Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading and American Smelting. Atlantic Coast Line and Westinghouse Electric rose 2, Chesapeake & Ohio 1⅝, and International Harvester 1¾. Supporting orders were encountered on the downward course and prices rallied.

THE MONEY MARKET.

New York, Oct. 27.—Prime mercantile paper, 5½@6 per cent.

Sterling exchange, steady, at decline, with actual business in bankers' bills at 482.30@482.50 for sixty day bills, and at 486.45 for demand.

Commercial bills, 482½.

Bar silver, 56⅛c.

Mexican dollars, 46c.

Government bonds, steady.

Railroad bonds, irregular.

Money on call, steady, at 2½@3½ per cent; ruling rate, 3½ per cent; closing bid, 3 per cent.

Time loans, stronger and dull; sixty days, 4½@5 per cent; ninety days, 4⅞@5 per cent; six months, 4¾@5 per cent.

NOVEL INSURANCE.

The good people of Frankfort seem to have gone one better than the recent innovation at Lloyd's to insure against bad weather during holidays. The Frankforters have started a company to insure the lives of dogs. Whether the policies are for endowment or annuity or for death only we do not know, nor is the name of the company given, but a Paris contemporary suggests that it will probably be the "Hündenlebenversicherungge-sellschaft," or something approaching it. The idea of insuring children's lives is not pleasant, but the prospect of making money out of the death of the friend of man is more repellant. Such an idea was not in the notion stage when Leemartine declared: "The more I see of men, the more I love dogs." If it had been, the aphorism would probably have been more scathing.—London Globe.

If You Want Handsome Curtains Here Are Rare Bargains

A Special Sale for Friday and Saturday

IVORY DUCHESSE, REAL VENISE, ANTIQUE MADIERA, COLORED EMPIRE, OLYMPIC—These are the names of some of the exquisite hand-made curtains which go on special sale Friday and Saturday.

This is the Reason: Of the lovely curtains mentioned above, we have single pairs and two-pair lots only. They weren't included in the big sale of last week because of their "fewness" of a kind. But for two days they make a most interesting aftermath to that splendid event.

SEE THESE CHARMING DRAPERIES IN OUR WEST WINDOW

Never before have such handsome, elegant curtains been offered at the sale prices in force during this special sale. The Saving is Just One-Fourth, and every curtain is of the highest class.
